Viet Nam Braces for More Buddhist Riots

Leaders of Opposition To Government Promise No Letup Until Change

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military government braced today for more street violence after the Buddhist leadership vowed to keep up demonstrations until the U.S.-backed junta quits.

"Only when our aspirations are met and our demands satisfied will there be no more demonstrations," the country's most powerful monks declared in a joint statement Sunday.

In militant tones echoing their declarations of political war on the government of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem three years ago, the Buddhists accused the regime of lying, irresponsibility and placing "too many obstacles" in the way of civilian rule.

New Organization

At a news conference in Saigon, the monks asked the nation to rally behind the "Viet Nam Buddhist Forces," a new anti-government political action organization created by them.

They were asked if a popular civilian government might seek peace with the Communists and order the withdrawal of U.S. forces. Thich Thien Minh, co-leader of the Viet Nam Buddhist Forces and chairman of the militant Buddhist Youth Movement, replied:

"If that is what the people want, then that is what they will get. We want to fulfill the aspirations of the people."

The Buddhist leaders denied they were anti-American or responsible for the attacks on individual Americans by rioting Buddhist-led youths in Saigon last week. "The monks involved were just letting off steam," they said. "We abide by nonviolence."

Destroy Spirit

They accused the Ky government of destroying "the democratic spirit in Viet Nam" by promising elections no earlier than next year. They said elections could be held right away.

The Buddhists said the pacification and reconstruction programs warmly endorsed by President Johnson at his Honolulu meeting with Ky in February could move ahead only "with strong provincial and central governments."

"We can get this with general elections, the elections we have demanded for three years," they said. "In this way we can make the whole country stable and prevent opportunists from making headway."

The overwhelming majority of South Viet Nam's more than 14 million people are at least nominally Buddhists, although Roman Catholics comprise about 10 per cent of the population.

British Navy Halts Tanker Headed for Mozambique Port

Another Oil Carrier Vows to Leave Beira With Full Cargo

LONDON (AP) — One Greek tanker loaded with oil for Rhodesia finally docked at the Mozambique port of Beira today while another headed for South Africa after the British Navy diverted her from Beira.

The Joanna V, carrying 18,700 tons of oil, pulled into an offloading berth at the docks from the anchorage two miles out where she had stayed since last Tuesday, the South African Press Association reported.

The Joanna's agents in Beira said she had docked only to facilitate repairing her propellers. But Beira shipping sources said the tanker would have to unload some of her oil cargo to raise the ship higher in the water for the repairs.

They did not say what might happen to the offloaded oil. The ship's captain, George Vardinoyannis, has said he plans to leave Beira with his oil cargo.

Another tanker, the Manuela, steamed toward Durban after the British navy withdrew the armed boarding party that had diverted the ship and its 16,000 tons of oil from Portuguese Mozambique.

"Surveillance of the Manuela is being maintained by air for the time being," the British Defense Ministry said.

The boarding party seized the tanker about 150 miles southeast of Beira Sunday, acting under a U.N. Security Council resolution authorizing Britain to use force if necessary to block the flow of oil through Beira to the rebellious white minority regime in Rhodesia.

Take Longer

If the Manuela unloads her cargo at Durban, about 750 miles southwest of Beira, Rhodesia presumably could still get the oil but it would take longer. South Africa's white minority government has permitted private companies to provide Rhodesia with enough oil by truck and train to sustain essential services during the British embargo.

Pressure is mounting in the U.N. for sanctions to be applied to South Africa if more oil flows over the border to Rhodesia.

Reds Optimistic About Putting Man on Moon

Soviets Prepare To Mark Anniversary Of Gagarin Flight

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union is preparing for the celebration Tuesday of the fifth anniversary of Yuri Gagarin's first manned space flight, with optimistic talk about putting a man on the moon.

Soviet cosmonauts have been giving indications that their government will attempt man's great lunar adventure sooner than had been expected.

Alexei Leonov, the first man to walk in space, March 18, 1965, said in Budapest that a Russian will land on the moon as early as 1968.

Gagarin told the Czechoslovak news agency that Soviet space research had advanced more rapidly than planned. He said he was convinced there would be a man on the moon within the next five years.

Second Cosmonaut

Gherman Titov, the second Soviet cosmonaut, predicted Sunday that the moon would become a giant space center where ships would be built for flights "into the depths of the universe." He talked of complicated operations being undertaken in space by men "soon."

The cosmonauts, all speaking in connection with the Gagarin anniversary, made no mention of President Johnson's claim that the United States would beat the Soviet Union in putting a man on the moon. The President gave 1970 as the target for the U.S. program.

The cosmonauts' optimism gets support from two big successes the Soviet space program has already achieved in 1966.

Lunar Orbit

On April 3 Luna 10 was put into orbit around the moon, another first and another essential for getting a man there. The most discussed plan for a manned landing calls for the trip to be made in stages, jumping off for the final one from a lunar satellite.

One possible next step in the Soviet program is a manned flight to explore the vicinity of the moon without attempting a landing.

Soviet space flights are never announced in advance. The cosmonauts give hints in general terms, but the world can only guess the rest.

A current rumor is that another space spectacular will be launched Tuesday on the anniversary of Gagarin's flight.

Presidency Is Bosch's Aim

Dominican Republic Revolution Party Nominates Ex-Head

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Juan Bosch, self-styled spokesman for the Dominican Republic's underprivileged, may soon have a second chance as president of his troubled nation.

Cheering delegates nominated the 56-year-old writer-philosopher Sunday as the presidential candidate of the Dominican Revolutionary party in the June elections.

Bosch, whose followers triggered the 1965 revolution in which the United States intervened, is considered the front runner in a contest expected to include at least three other major presidential aspirants.

Folksy Language

Bosch couches his speeches in simple folksy language that appeals to the common man.

His upper-class critics see distortion, bitterness and vindictiveness woven skillfully into his oratory. But in the neighborhood grocery stores, bars and fruit stands, the ordinary folk cluster transfixed around their radios when Bosch speaks.

"Juan Bo' lo sabe todo — Juan Bosch knows it all," they say reverently.

4 Die in Marshfield Accident

Weekend Crashes Kill 14

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fourteen persons died in a bloody Easter Weekend on Wisconsin streets and highways.

The toll was boosted by three multiple - fatality accidents, including the deaths of four youths near Marshfield and a two-car collision that killed two more persons in Waukesha County Sunday night.

The victims were identified as Mrs. Shirley Miller, 37, of Hartland and her 18-month-old daughter, Patricia.

Mrs. Miller's husband, Gene, 41, was among three persons injured.

Jeffrey Burnard, 21, of La Farge was injured fatally Sunday when his car overturned after leaving a curve on Highway 33 near Cashton, Monroe County.

The worst accident of the weekend turned an auto into a flaming deathtrap for four teenagers near Marshfield.

Flaming Crash

Three persons perished in the flames Saturday. The fourth victim, Allen G. Ehrike, 16, of rural Stratford, died afterwards in a Marshfield hospital.

Authorities said two cars collided on a Wood County road west of Marshfield and the impact sprayed gasoline from the tank of one car onto the auto in which the victims were riding. The gasoline burst into flames.

Trapped and killed outright were Sandra Binder, 16, of rural Marshfield, and Gary Spindler, 16, and Peter Strachota, 16, also of rural Stratford.

Sawyer County accidents took the lives of two other teenagers Saturday.

A 17-year - old driver, Roger Ehn of Ojibwa, was killed as his car hit a tree and overturned along Highway 70 near Ojibwa, southeast of Hayward.

A 13-year - old girl, Lorraine Nickence of rural Hayward, died in a hospital Saturday after she was struck by a car in Hayward.

Green Bay Man

A Green Bay man, Emil A. Anderson, 56, was injured fatally Saturday night as his small van and an auto collided at a Green Bay intersection.

The first multiple - fatality crash of the weekend killed Mrs. Tressa E. Lehman, 54, Reedsburg, and Mrs. Mabel E. Drescher, 44, Baraboo, Friday night. Authorities said their auto and a car occupied by four teen-agers collided on Highway 33 about seven miles east of Baraboo.

Eighteen - year - old James L. Herbrand of Waunakee was killed when the pickup truck in which he was riding overturned Friday night on a Dane County road near Waunakee.

A two - car collision Friday night on Highway 12 west of Fort Atkinson fatally injured Terry Ellison, 20, Whitewater.

Coal Miners Leave Jobs In Six States

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Miners struck soft-coal operations in six states today hours before the resumption of contract talks between the United Mine Workers Union and mine owners.

The strike spread to Ohio early today.

Picket lines appeared in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Illinois, Kentucky and Alabama.

In Washington, a spokesman at UMW headquarters said "there wasn't any sanction" for the walkouts. The spokesman said the situation between the union and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association was unchanged from Friday.

UMW President W.A. Boyle had said then the union "considered itself at liberty to strike at any time."

As late as Sunday afternoon, UMW Vice President George Titler said he knew nothing of a rank-and-file movement for a strike.

Elderly Milwaukee Mother Shoots Son, Self, Calls Police

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Authorities said a 70-year-old mother admitted slaying her son Sunday, then shooting herself and sitting down to await the arrival of police.

The mother, Mrs. Mable Ferguson, was listed in critical condition at a hospital today. The body of her son, James, 43, was found in a hallway outside his bedroom in their home.

Police quoted Mrs. Ferguson as saying, "I couldn't take this any longer. This is a chamber of horrors."

The son was struck by two bullets from a .38 caliber revolver. Investigators said Mrs. Ferguson admitted shooting herself in the chest, telephoning police and sitting down at a kitchen table until they arrived.

Charge Youth In Murder of Two Women

QUINCY, Ill. (AP)—A youth who lived a few doors from the apartment of two young women who were found stabbed and shot to death has been charged with murder.

Ronald McCleery, 18, of Quincy, was charged Sunday with murder in connection with the deaths of Miss Judith Ann Greening, 22, and Miss Donetta Pickens, 21, who worked as secretaries for a propane gas company in Quincy.

He was to be arraigned today.

Miss Greening's body was found in a ditch on a rural road about three miles south of Quincy March 22. She had been stabbed 51 times and wounded by a shotgun blast.

Twelve hours later, the body of Miss Pickens was found in the luggage compartment of her automobile, parked on a street about a mile from the women's apartment. She had been stabbed 15 times and shot.

Both women were fully clothed.

McCleery was arrested in Quincy Saturday night, said State's Atty. Don Adams and Adams County Sheriff Charles Proctor.

Miss Pickens was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Pickens of Plaineville, near Quincy. Miss Greening was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Greening of Monroe City, Mo.

Nab Youth Attempting Immolation

WASHINGTON (AP)—A college student doused himself with gasoline in front of the White House in what police said was an attempt to burn himself to death in protest against the Viet Nam war. He was seized as he tried to strike two matches.

Police said Arthur Zinner, a slender, bespectacled 20-year-old Boston University student, was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital for observation.

Zinner arrived in Washington by bus early Sunday, police said, and telephoned two radio stations telling them of his plan. Radio station personnel notified police. Two detectives and a Secret Service agent grabbed Zinner when he poured gasoline from two plastic bottles on himself and tried to strike the matches.

The youth offered no resistance.

In New York, the youth's father, Jack Zinner, said his son was not active in any peace group that he knew of, but said he must have been "carried away by what the students are doing."

Lost Battery Power

Failure of OAO Disappoints NASA

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — "We're heartbroken," said a space agency spokesman in announcing the failure of America's Star-gazer satellite after only two days in orbit.

For an unknown reason, the Orbiting Astronomical Observatory (OAO) lost all its battery power Sunday and the two-ton satellite whirled silently and uselessly around the globe.

It never had a chance to exercise its 10 telescopes, which astronomers had hoped would unlock secrets of the stars and perhaps provide clues to the origin of the universe.

University of Wisconsin scientists had designed seven of the telescopes on board.

Learn Lessons

Scientists had worked for years to perfect OAO, the first astronomical observatory ever sent into space. All were disappointed at the failure, but said they hoped it would teach them lessons about the second OAO, scheduled for launching early in 1967.

The lessons will be costly. The satellite, one of the heaviest and most complex unmanned payload ever launched by the U.S., had a pricetage of about $50 million. The Atlas - Agena rocket that hoisted it from Cape Kennedy Friday cost about $12 million. Several thousands of dollars were added to the cost by five postponements of the flight.

Fizzles Costly

The failure of an Atlas - Centaur rocket on Thursday pushed the total cost of the back - to - back fizzles here to more than $75 million.

After a promising beginning, OAO's main battery began overheating and losing power Saturday. Ground technicians worked with the problem overnight.

The space agency announced Sunday that the overheated batted in complications leading to degradation of the power supply from all three batteries aboard the spacecraft, and telemetry signals no longer are being received.

"Efforts to overcome the problem have been unsuccessful and the OAO mission appears to have been lost."

New York Crime Wave Only Better Reporting

NEW YORK (AP) — A "statistical wave" of crime has hit New York, says Police Commissioner Howard R. Leary.

The number of reported burglaries and robberies for a 20-day period is nearly double the same period last year.

Pope Pleads for Peace

Christians Throughout World Celebrate Easter

From humble chapels along the twisting alleyways of old Jerusalem to stately churches adorning broad avenues, the world's Christians — rich and poor, the mighty and the humble — gathered in their places of worship to celebrate Easter Sunday, the climax of Holy Week.

Pilgrims in Jerusalem paid homage in churches ranging from the tiny to ornate Byzantine structures.

Lutheran Services

A few Protestants knelt in a field outside the city, praying before a cleft in a rock, which they believe is the spot where Christ was buried.

Across the storied valley, on the Mount of Olives, Lutherans held services in the Church of Mary Magdalen near the Garden of Gethsemane.

Unity in Love

In jam-packed St. Peter's Square in Rome, Pope Paul VI in his annual Easter message pleaded for an end to war, racism, nationalism, and social conflict.

The Pope termed the celebration of Christ's Resurrection "history's eternal springtime."

If all men listened to the Easter message, he said, he felt confident about "the possibility of this triumph of unity in love and justice, in liberty and progress."

In Fredericksburg, Tex., President Johnson attended services at St. Barnabas Episcopal church with his family. Daughter Luci — who became Catholic, as is her fiance, Pat Nugent — later attended a Roman Catholic service.

There were peace marches in England and in New York City.

About 100 demonstrators joined the thousands in the Easter parade on Manhattan's Fifth Avenue, handing out literature calling the war in Viet Nam "immoral, illegal and inconsistent with Judeo-Christian principles."

The avenue between 57th and 46th streets was closed to traffic as more than 160,000 persons overflowed the sidewalks showing off their holiday finery after attending church.

50th Anniversary

Hunger Strike by Irish Militants Marks Rising

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP — Eighteen young Irish militants planned to start a hunger strike today as their nation celebrated the 50th anniversary of the Easter uprising.

The youths said they would fast from noon today until 3:45 p.m. Saturday, recalling the duration of the bloody 1916 rebellion crushed by the British. The uprising eventually led to the creation of the Irish Republic.

Ireland has no cause to celebrate, the hunger strikers said. They accused the Irish government of betraying revolutionary ideals by letting Gaelic die out and by tolerating Ireland's partition and economic dependence on Britain.

Dublin Students

The hunger strikers included several Dublin University students and six supporters from Belfast in the north. They are members of a fringe organization of the Gaelic revival movement called Misneach — Courage.

Inside Dublin's main post office, Joe Clarke, 84, revisited the place where he participated in the uprising and laid a wreath at the foot of the Cuchulainn statue, which is dedicated to a legendary figure symbolizing Ireland. The wreath carried the words, "To the forgotten ideals of 1916."

Mairtin O'Cadhain, a leading Gaelic author, Sunday night accused the government of selling out the aims of 1916 and fearing the spread of the Irish language because it would stir up Irish nationalism.

Despite these protests, there were no outbreaks of nationalist violence. Irishmen celebrated the anniversary by singing patriotic songs or paused to remember the bitter uprising. The Archbishop of Dublin was to dedicate a garden of remembrance today in Parnell Square, where the British had held most of the prisoners from the post office garrison.

President Eamon de Valera and other 1916 veterans reviewed a military parade by 5,000 Sunday as the Republican flag fluttered atop the post office where once it had been hoisted defiantly.

De Valera, 83 and nearly blind, and Prime Minister Sean Lemass, 61, were closely protected during the ceremonies because of reported threats to their lives by extremists. There were no incidents.

Easter Observed by Attendance at Churches

Throughout the Fox Cities, indeed, throughout America and the world, Christians observed Easter Sunday with attendance at church. For an hour or more, parents and children knelt together to hear the significance of the holy day.

In Appleton, services began at sunrise and continued to late afternoon. In most cases, families attended together, often in traditional spring finery.

In spite of the lack of real warmth and sunshine, it was still mild enough for little girls to don new bonnets and coats, and to make debuts in new white shoes. Their mothers followed suit.

Leaving Memorial Presbyterian church after the final Easter services in the old building are Mrs. William Ellmaker and Mrs. Wilmer Rehbein.

The Richard Lundgren family attended Easter service together at Trinity Lutheran Church. The children are Ravi, Kirk and Beth.

Coeds Retaliate; Write Guide To Male Students

By RONALD I. DEUTSCH

NEW YORK (AP)—A college girl's guide called "Where the Boys Are" unmask the dating habits of male collegiates, but from Dartmouth to Rutgers the boys aren't going along with the appraisal.

In the words of one Princeton junior, Bruce McConnell, 21, of Pasadena, Calif., "if the young ladies don't like us, they really don't have to go out with us."

The 32-page book offering dating advice to college girls was compiled by staffs of student newspapers at Smith and Mt. Holyoke Colleges for women.

Reply to Males

Tartly written to plunge daggers into the male ego, it is a reply to a book published last year at Princeton in which the boys had their say about the girls. That one was entitled "Where The Girls Are."

"Where The Boys Are" was written by two Amherst College seniors, Thomas G. Plate of Farmingdale, N.Y., and J. Aaron Latham of Tucson, Ariz.

"The boys provided the courage and raised the money to get the book published and we provided the information," said Marsha Cohen, 19, a Smith coed.

Champions for Coeds

Said Plate: "We felt the girls needed a defender."

Latham said, "We met and listened to them gab about the guys they've dated — and then sat down and wrote."

Here are some sample passages from "Where The Boys Are" and how they were greeted by the men:

Princeton: "The only place in the world where when a boy and his date walk past a mirror, it's the boy who stops to comb his hair."

Reaction: "A little more hair combing might be in order for a lot of schools around here, both the male and female variety," said Princetonian Frank Warren, 20, junior, of Danville, Va.

Harvard Man

Harvard: "Always remember that if the Harvardman you're dating is wearing a three-piece suit as you walk into the Brattle Theater, he's wondering how you'll look next to him at some diplomatic reception in 10 years."

Reaction "They're oriented toward finding husbands and they're pleased to believe we're thinking about what concerns them," replied John Gerhart, a Harvard senior from Abilene, Tex.

Columbia: "If you want to do the junior sophisticate bit around Morningside Heights, the Columbia boy is not for you, but don't take him for a pushover: anyone who's had to fight his way into a subway is tougher than any flimsy Ivy."

Columbia's Defense

Reaction: "At Columbia the subways may be on strike, the electricity may be off and the water rationed, but after all, eight million people live in this city. We must be doing something right!" retorted Columbian Robert Merlis, 18, of Brooklyn.

Dartmouth: "The Dartmouth man is a masochist. He's marooned in the wilds of New Hampshire so when another voice (yours), soft, charming, feminine, finally arrives, the timber wolf is bound to pounce."

Reaction: "The image of a Dartmouth man as a sex-hungry animal is inculcated in freshmen girls and is not founded on fact. It is what they want to believe."

Rutgers Student

Rutgers: "Berkeley east. That's what your date will think Rutgers is. He'll even try to dress the part. California jeans and longish, surfing hair."

Reaction: "The best generalization about Rutgers men is 'apathetic.' They gripe about everything but don't do anything about it," said Rutgers sophomore Joe Brezin, 18, of Fair Lawn, N.J.

Most men agreed with A. G. Kasselberg, 20, Princeton junior from Memphis, Tenn., who said "men will take this about as seriously as 'Where The Girls Are,' that is to say, not at all."

LaLeche League Sets Panel Talks

The LaCrosse chapter of LaLeche League International Inc., will present a panel discussion on breastfeeding at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Wisconsin Public Service auditorium, 1248 Main St., Stevens Point.

The possibility of forming chapters in Stevens Point, the Fox Cities and other central Wisconsin areas will be discussed.

Wedding Promises Exchanged

HORTONVILLE — Miss Judy Behrend became the bride of Lowell Leitzke at 7 p.m. Sunday at Bethlehem Lutheran Church. The Rev. Charles Schlei officiated at the double ring rite.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Behrend, 203½ Main St., are the parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Myron Leitzke, route 1, Hortonville, and the late Mr. Leitzke.

The bride chose her sister, Miss Margene Behrend, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Kathleen Leitke and Miss Karen Leitzke. Miss Paula Rae Hameister was junior bridal aide.

David E. Missall acted as best man. David Maves and James Zerbe were groomsmen. Bud Everts and Alan Uhlenbrauck ushered. Serving as junior male attendant was Michael Diestler.

A reception took place at the Rainbow Supper Club, New London.

Mrs. Leitzke attended City College of Cosmetology, Appleton, and is employed at the Farmers Union Central Exchange, Appleton. Her husband is employed at H. C. Prange Co., Appleton, and is attending Appleton Adult and Vocational School.

Spring Salad Bar

WINNECONNE— The women of the First Presbyterian Church will sponsor their annual Spring Salad Bar and Book Review at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Winneconne Central School. After the meal, Mrs. Roberta S. Boismenue, widely known reviewer, will speak on Irving Stone's book "Those Who Love". Mrs. Jack Gruwell has charge of ticket sales.

WCOF Installs New Officers

The Women's Catholic Order of Foresters installed officers Wednesday evening at St. Mary School. Mrs. Louis Pelczynski, past chief ranger, served as installing officer.

Besides the recently elected officers, four others were also installed. Mrs. Roger Green is senior conductor; Mrs. Edward Bartman, junior conductor; Mrs. Albert England, inside sentinel, and Mrs. William Morrow, outside sentinel.

Plans were discussed for the Good Neighbor Fair April 30 at Valley Fair Shopping Center. Mrs. Edwin Massonette and Mrs Raymond Heegeman are co-chairmen.

A mother-daughter potluck supper is set for 6:30 p.m. May 4. Junior members and their mothers will also attend. Mrs. Emmet Brown, Mrs. Joseph Wydeven and Mrs. Pelczynski are co-chairmen. Mrs. Green will have charge of junior invitations.

Jerrie Mock Breaks Second Flying Record

By AL GOLDBERG

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) Thirty-one hours, 4,550 miles and several bumps on the head after taking off from Honolulu, weary but jubilant Jerrie Mock arrived home late Sunday night with a second world record under her wing.

The tiny 40-year-old aviatrix, who nearly two years ago become the first woman to fly solo around the world, touched down at Port Columbus airport at 10.36 p.m. on the longest nonstop airplane flight ever made by a woman.

Mrs Mock bettered the old mark of 3,671 miles, set in 1938 by three Russian women, by nearly 900 miles

But she couldn't have added another mile to the mark, landing nearly out of fuel and keeping a crowd of about 500 well-wishers anxiously in doubt until just before she arrived

No Emergency

"I was short of fuel all right," said the diminutive housewife, "but it wasn't any emergency or anything

"I knew I had enough to get here Otherwise I would have landed somewhere else "

Still, it was disclosed later that the decision to fly on to Columbus wasn't made until after she was in Ohio and had transferred all the fuel to one tank so "I could measure to the drop" how much fuel was left

She estimated she had fuel for 15 to 30 minutes of flying left after landing

Mrs Mock the mother of two grown boys and a young daughter and grandmother of one, said the roughest part of her trip was "the winds over the Pacific and turbulence over the Rockies."

"I bumped my head a few times," she said of the flight over the Rockies, adding that was "the only part of the trip that worried me."

She said she also got "banged on the head by my flashlight and lost most of my personal effects" behind the special fuel tanks that took most of the passenger space in the six-seater Cessna.

Lost One Computer

"I even lost the computer which I use to figure distances," she said "Luckily I had an extra one on my key chain."

Tired? Someone asked.

"Just a little," she said, closing her eyes She remarked that was the first time she had rested her eyes since awakening at 5:30 a.m., Honolulu time, Saturday morning more than 36 hours earlier.

The 5-foot, 105-pound pilot took off from Honolulu, bolstered by three ham sandwiches and a vacuum bottle of water, at 3:34 p.m., EST, Saturday.

Tailwinds early in the much-delayed flight enabled Mrs. Mock to reach speeds upwards of 207 miles an hour. Then came the fuel-consuming winds and at one point her husband, Russell, an advertising copy writer here, said she was "making "between 20 and no knots."

Tell Route

She hit the West Coast just south of Los Angeles, then headed toward Flagstaff, Ariz., north to Pueblo, Colo., then east to Wichita, Kan., the point where she broke the previous record

From there, it was over Kansas City; Vandalia, Ill.; south of Indianapolis and home

Mrs. Mock, an Ohio State University graduate in aeronautical engineering, cut back on the throttle to conserve fuel during the latter stages of the trip.

The greeting party at the airport was headed by her husband and Gov James A. Rhodes, who together helped her down from the plane and held her up while her stiff legs became accustomed to being back on the ground

Welcomed Home

Then it was hugs and kisses by her children and close friends and presentation of two dozen carnations by her Phi Mu sorority sisters at Ohio State.

"Mrs Mock is just the latest — and most modern — in a line of Ohio aviation heroes that started with the Wright brothers," said Gov Rhodes "We're proud and honored to have her back "

The Purpose, Operation and goals of the Theresians were the subjects of a seminar held Wednesday afternoon by the group at the Conway Hotel. One of the guests, the Rev. Orville Griese, acting pastor of St. Mary Catholic Church, Brillion, and Green Bay diocesan vocational director, chatted with Sister M. Gonsalvo O. P., St. Mary Catholic Church, Appleton, and Mrs. Michael Ariens, Brillion; Mrs. Richard Hare and Mrs. Lyle Becker, both of Appleton. Among other guests were the Rev. Gerald Falk, St. Mary Catholic Church; the Rev. Mark Schumacher, Xavier High School, and superiors from the Catholic schools in Appleton, St. Elizabeth Hospital and the Retreat House. Intelligent Teens Prefer to Study With Loud Music

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If your teen-ager turns up the volume while studying — don't fret.

"It may be a sign of intelligence," says an educator.

Dr. John E Hoffman, who has a daughter 19, and feels like an authority on teen-age study habits, recently tested 281 11th-grade pupils while recorded music blared at them with a force of 85 decibels for 30 minutes.

By comparison, the average office noise is 60 decibels, a busy street 70 decibels, a pneumatic drill 90 decibels.

Loud as Symphony

"The sound was not deafening," says Hoffman, "but it was a loud as a symphony orchestra during a crescendo."

Despite the noise, students of higher than average intelligence scored as well or better on examinations than they did when tested in a quiet room, Hoffman said.

"Superior readers tended to perform more effectively under loud noise than poor readers," said the educator. "Students of average and below average intelligence seemed to be bothered more by the sound."

For Doctoral Degree

Hoffman made the experiments in earning a Ph. D. in education at the University of Southern California He elaborated on his findings in an interview.

"Teen-agers like the radio, record-player or television turned on loud at any time because they want to feel the sound They want to participate — to actually feel the beat," Hoffman said.

"They do it when they study because this puts them in a good mood, and thus they are more receptive. Also, forcing themselves to learn under this form of stress increases their concentration, and the superior students seem to learn more rapidly."

Only for Teenagers

But it only works for teen-agers, he cautioned.

"It doesn't work for pre-high school students nor for those in college," he said.

"And it certainly doesn't work for adults. I know. I spent eight hours a day for four days giving those tests in all that noise.

Woman Student 'Sallies' In as Legal Journal Editor

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The new editor-in-chief of the University of Michigan's Law Review insists it wasn't an omen when the editor's office was redecorated in pale pink and a white.

The new paint job appeared three weeks before Sally Katzen, 23, became the first woman named to hold the top post on the university's quarterly legal journal.

The pretty brunette from Pittsburgh heads a staff of 24 associate and assistant editors — all men — on what is considered by many lawyers one of the top publications of its kind in the United States. The journal frequently is cited in litigants' briefs and court decisions.

Sally already has begun to break with tradition by making personal visits to solicit research contributions from the university's law professors.

"I've been told the job will take about 60 hours a week," she said, "but I hope I won't have to give up my social life."

As a second year law student Sally also will carry a 12-semester hour academic load.

"They say you're supposed to do about three hours of homework for every hour in class, so maybe I'll just give up sleeping," she laughed.

Smith Alumna

An honors graduate of Smith College, Sally already has compiled an impressive legal background.

One summer she did legal research for a U.S. Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights and last summer she was a research assistant for the Civil Rights Division of the Department of Justice.

She has been interested in civil rights since her days at Smith, "but not in such a way that I would go out in the streets and march," she said.

Showers Held In Honor of Miss Siepel

CHILTON—Miss Virginia Seipel, who will be married Saturday to Donald Ziegelbauer at St. Mary Catholic Church, has been feted at two pre-nuptial parties recently.

On March 20 her attendants were hostesses at a grocery shower at Sep's Hall, Jericho. The mother of the bridegroom-elect, Mrs. Severin Ziegelbauer, assisted Mrs. Paul Ziegelbauer, Mrs. Jim Aplin, Mrs. Jerry Seipel and Miss Karen Zeipel in planning the party.

A linen shower was held March 27 at the Chilton Hotel by Miss Seipel's employers, Mrs. Arno Sohrweide and Miss Minnie Olbrick, co-workers at the Chilton Beauty Shop.

Miss Seipel's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Seipel, route 1, Chilton. Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Severin Ziegelbauer, Jericho.

Nurses' Assistants Graduate From New Course

Sister M. Lillian, director of St. Elizabeth Hospital nursing service, pours coffee for Charles Barnum, administrator of Family Heritage Nursing Home, at a reception following the presentation of cards to the graduate nurses' assistants Thursday at the hospital. With them are Miss Gay Hiroskey and Miss Anne Doxtator, both of Appleton. (Post-Crescent Photos)

The first group of graduates from a new nurses' assistants training course received their cards Thursday afternoon at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Health agencies cooperating in the program are St. Elizabeth Hospital and the Family Heritage Nursing Home. The Appleton Vocational, Technical and Aduli School worked out the training course for the program.

The four-week long course included 60 hours of classroom instruction and 30 to 60 hours of supervised instruction. Mrs. Robert Zwicker, a registered nurse, was teacher and supervisor.

To Complement Nurses

Members of the class were employes of the two health agencies sponsoring the program. The courses were designed to train them to carry out tasks essential to patient care but which do not constitute the practice of nursing.

This first program was limited to 15 students. Plans are now under way to conduct other similar programs.

Others instrumental in conducting the program were Sister M. Lillian, director of nursing services at St. Elizabeth hospital; Charles Barnum, manager of the Family Heritage Nursing Home, and Carl G. Bertram, director of the Appleton Vocational, Technical and Adult School.

Couple Boasts 'Different,' Unruly Baby

POLAND, Ohio (AP) — The baby at the Sylvester Mermosh home is different.

Mrs. Mermosh takes Samantha out — on a leash.

Surprise Gift

Born in the Congo, she was 8 months old when Mermosh bought her from a New York pet shop as a surprise gift for his wife, Judy, in February 1964.

"He knew how much I wanted one," Mrs. Mermosh said. "On a trip to Florida, I fell in love with Henry, a year-old chimpanzee we saw there. I'm a kook that way."

Samantha is being brought up like a human baby, clothes and all.

Mrs. Mermosh had no experience as an animal trainer.

"All I knew," she said, "was that if you don't give the chimp baby love the first year, it will pine away and die."

Sam apparently got enough tender, loving care, because she's never had anything worse than a cold, and she'll be 3 in June.

Will become Strong

Samantha will grow to 150 pounds and 5 feet tall She'll acquire the strength of three men. Chimps reach maturity at 10 or 12, can live as long as 50, but can't be trusted by humans after they're 6 or 7.

"When she begins chasing me around the apartment, that's when we'll get rid of her," Mrs. Mermosh said "Now she's quite docile — and no more destructive than a 2-year-old child."

Eyeglasses Call for Special Make-Up

If you wear glasses and haven't already mapped out a make-up procedure to follow, you may find these tips from a national family magazine helpful:

Put on all your make-up (except, perhaps, lipstick) with your glasses off. A magnifying mirror can be a help, especially for applying eye make-up, if you're farsighted.

To even skin tones and to help hide shadows under the eyes, apply makeup base and powder right up to the lower eye rim. Carefully brush away any excess powder around the eyes so that it doesn't settle into tiny crevices.

Unless you wear very bold frames that give a definite line to the eyes, let your eyebrows show above your glasses. Keep your brows neatly tweezed, removing strays from between the eyes and beneath the brow line. Apply brush-on eyebrow coloring or pencil lightly, extending the line a bit if neccessary so that it parallels the frame. Keep in mind when you're choosing glasses that the shape of brow and frame shouldn't conflict.

If your lenses magify, they will intensify the color and the effect of your eye make-up and also make your eyes look more prominent. Subdued eye shadow and liner are then best for you. Wear soft brown, gray, or pastel shadow, applying it over the entire lid. Liner, applied in a thin line close to the lashes, should be charcoal gray or soft brown. If you wear nonmagnifying lenses, you can use bright shades of shadow, dark brown or black liner.

Stroke mascara on the upper lashes and lightly on the lower lashes, using black or brown, depending upon your hair color.

Do you want to try false lashes? Make sure that they're trimmed short enough, the lash lengths should be uneven, so they don't beat against your lenses.

Glasses, especially those with large or heavy frames, draw attention to the upper part of your face. So balance the glasses be accenting your mouth. Use clear lipstick shades in the range of medium to bright rather than pale fade-away colors. Follow the natural lip line but do give the mouth all the width and fulness you can.

EUB Circles Set Combined Session Tuesday

All four circles of the Women's Society of World Service of Emmanuel Evangelical United Brethren Church will have a combined meeting at the church at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Alfred Rhode and Mrs. Ray Remmel, co-chairmen, will present the program on "Mission; Christian Citizenship." Mrs. Marvin Schilling of the First Methodist Church will talk on the United Nations.

Mrs. Gilbert Kindschy is hostess chairman.

A mother-son banquet is planned for 6:15 p.m. April 26 in the fellowship hall. Mrs. Lennart Sponberg, Mrs. Gerald Rusch and Mrs. Ray Hernke have charge of ticket sales. Mrs. Walter Laehn Sr. is program chairman.

Miss Boehm Engaged to Wed

NEENAH—Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Boehm, 664 Congress St., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mary Jo, to Stephen K. Stilp, San Gabriel, Calif. The bridegroom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyall Stilp, Indian Shores, route 1, Winneconne.

Miss Boehm will be graduated from Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh in June. She is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. Her fiance was graduated from Trinity University, San Antonio, Texas, and is a sales representative for Kimberly-Clark Corp.

A June 25 wedding is planned.

Defender Will Break All Rules

For most bridge players defensive play is a game of Blind Man's Bluff. Operating mostly in the dark, they stick to the "rules" of good play and hope that the hand doesn't call for an exception to the rules.

When this hand came along a month ago in the national team championship, Edwin Kantar, Los Angeles expert, led the ace of spades. Then he thought for a few seconds, since it wasn't at all clear how to proceed.

Opening lead — ♠ A

There was a chance to defeat the contract if East had a fast diamond trick and could give West a diamond ruff. Kantar therefore shifted to the ten of diamonds at the second trick.

South won with the jack of diamonds and led a low trump. The "rule" told Kantar just what to do. "Second hand low," he has taught thousands of pupils.

Instead, Kantar stepped up with the king of hearts. This was no time to stick to the rules.

Continues Defense

Kantar continued his defense by leading another diamond. South won and led another trump to the ace. Now East could lead a third diamond, and West's ruff was the setting trick.

South would make the contract if West played low on the first round of trumps. East would have to win with the ace of trumps while West still had a diamond. West would not get his ruff, and the setting trick would never materialize.

Deciding which hand should win the trick is easy for a declarer who sees his partner's hand. Only one defender in a million can make such decisions when he has to guess which tricks his partner can win.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes. You hold: S J 10 9, H A 5, D K 9 7 4, C 9 7 4 2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one diamond. Show a new suit rather than raise partner's minor suit.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Lady of Quality

"It is not only fine feathers that make fine birds." . . . Aesop, 620-560 B C

We might give that thought a whirl as we break out our spring finery. There can be no doubt that, in looking our best, we both take and give pleasure. Viewed in that light, a fine appearance actually becomes a duty owed to ourselves and those around us.

But as Aesop's words suggest, appearance is only the facade of the personality. Take the peacock as an example: the feathers are fine, but the bird is mean to the core.

Just so, a lovely's behavior is the measure of her lasting appeal. When her actions and attitudes are charming, her company is in demand and treasured.

And small wonder, for she has mastered the social graces — tact, timing and tolerance. She has developed a reservoir of sympathy, understanding and good humor. She is aware, she cares and she shares. It can truly be said that she is a lady of quality.

For a young lady, the quest of charm may seem a difficult journey. Let her remember that no worthwhile goal is won without wit and will. Double dips of those commodities are needed — to acquire tact, the first step to charm.

For a woman, charm is an ageless way of life and its own reward — more to be desired than a showy parade of feathers.

Coed Asks Ann's Support in Abolishing Dorm Visiting Rules

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a female, aged 20, a sophomore at a large midwestern university. I'm writing about something that is bugging students on every campus in the country. We are demanding emancipation from the unrealistic and hypocritical rules designed to inhibit our sexual activity.

Landers

A group of crusaders for sexual freedom took a blind poll of our dorm last week. The question was: "Are you a make-out or a hold-out?" Each girl was asked to check A or B. (We wanted to insure honest responses so we didn't ask for signatures.) Well, 85 per cent of the girls said they were make-outs, while 15 per cent said they were hold-outs. This poll suggests that the vast majority of college girls have already made that decision so what do the school authorities think they are saving us from, anyway?

We believe each girl must decide for herself where to draw the line or if she wishes to draw a line at all. We also believe that dorms, both men's and women's, should be open to members of the opposite sex, day and night.

Why drive students to expensive motels, rented rooms, the beaches, or — worst of all — into uncomfortable cars? If our minds are made up we will find a place — and you can bet on it.

We need backing from people like you. Please help us to persuade college administrations to treat us like mature adults. It is not only absurd, but degrading, to be policed as if we were 12 years old. — My Name is Legion

Dear Legion: You don't need to tell me that when your minds are made up you will find a place. I get dozens of letters every day from girls who have found the place. They ask me to help them find another place. A home for unwed mothers.

I don't believe dorm rules ever saved even one girl's virtue. You are right, the school can't save something that the girl herself doesn't think is worth saving. But your suggestion that the administration endorse an Open Door Policy because dorms are more comfortable than cars — and cheaper than motels — is ridiculous

While it is true that an individual's conscience is still the best policeman in the world, rules and regulations are essential in a well-ordered society.

Some sterling characters would behave precisely as they now do if there were no rules, but most of us need guidelines. We need to have limits set to save us from ourselves.

When you kids were living at home did your parents allow you to entertain members of the opposite sex in your bedrooms at all hours of the day and night? And what would you have thought of them if they had allowed it? Most college students are being put through school by parents who are sacrificing to do it. The restrictions are part of the total package and college kids should not resent it.

A college that provides a cozy setup for intramural sex must accept full responsibility when its students get into trouble. And many of them would. You can bet on it.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

Wrong, at least as the proposition is stated. Success requires conformity to the demands and standards of the group to which you would like to belong. In order to do this, you may have to break with the group to which you actually do belong Middle-class people who want to become upper class must learn and conform to upper class standards. This always means risks. The group to which you would like to belong may not accept you, and you could find yourself accepted by neither It is a calculated risk that you must take if you want to get ahead

Are today's young people progressive?

Yes — No —

Of course, not all young people are the same. Some undoubtedly are progressive. Others are merely unbuttoned. Being progressive means a willingness to accept what is really better. It does not mean grabbing every new thing that looks attractive. In order even to know what is really better, one must have a certain amount of knowledge and experience One has to be able to suspend judgment, and to evaluate and test Do young people want to do this? We will be glad to hear from you on this point

Opera Leaving Old Met for New House

Building Will Let Audience Sit In Comfort, More Scenery Indoors

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK (AP) — The Metropolitan Opera is a company of singers surrounded by an orchestra, dancers and a variety of production and administrative people. It is one of the best opera companies in the world and should have the best, most modern fully equipped house in which to perform.

That is the sensible view.

The Metropoliton Opera is a building just south of Times Square, where second and third act scenery is stacked outside on the sidewalk leaning against the back wall while the first act is going on, where the acoustics are wonderful, where it's nearly always too hot for audience comfort and where Caruso sang. It's a building soon to be torn down and a lot of people love it and hate to see it go.

Sensible View

That is the nostalgic view.

The sensible view is prevailing. On Sept 16, the Met will open its 1966-67 season in a new $42.7-million building at Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts It will be cooled, it will have 3,800 seats, 175 more than the Met has now, it will have storage space and rehearsal space and two orchestra pit elevators.

Rudolf Bing, Met general manager since 1950, says. "It won't look like the old house at all. You cannot expect in 1966 to build a 19th century building, but it will be traditional within contemporary limits. It will have tiers of boxes, beautiful redwood, gold leafing in the ceiling, red chairs and a crystal chandelier. It will be very elegant. It will have nothing of the mixture of antiseptic hospital and airplane terminal style you see in Europe today.

"You can't tell about acoustics now — not all the chairs are in yet. But Justino Diaz and Leontyne Price — who will open the next season in Samuel Barber's new "Antony and Cleopatra" — just sang the national anthem from the stage without accompaniment and it sounded very well."

Opened 1882

The present house, soon to be torn down to make room for a skyscraper, opened Oct. 22, 1883. with Carles Gounod's "Faust." It cost $2 million, including the land.

The Met is selling everything it can — light fixtures, seats, even tassels from the gold curtain for $5 each Some people are just taking things — a big heavy bust of John McCormack is missing from its pedestal Pocket knives have gouged pieces from the faded upholstery. At least two sopranos have requested pieces of the floor.

Nostalgia will prevail on the last night of this season, April 16, at 39th St and Broadway. The last night — sold out long ago — won't be an opera. Too many stars want to sing and each person in the audience wants to hear his favorites.

More than 50 stars will be able to say "Oh, yes, I sang at the last night in the old house."

Wooden Stage

Where Enrico Caruso sang and Geraldine Farrar, Ernestine Schumann-Heink; Nellie Melba, in whose honor were named peach melba and melba toast; Rosa Ponselle, Lilli Lehmann, Lotte Lehmann, Maria Jeritz, Amelita Galli-Curci, Kirsten Flagstad, Lauritz Melchoir, Antonio Scotti, Jean de Rszke, Lawrence Tibbett, Giovanni Martinelli, who often is seen in the Met audience these days, white-haired, straight-backed and handsome; Jussi Bjorling, Ezio Pinza and Leonard Warren, who collapsed on stage and died in 1960;

Where were heard the dazzling debuts of Renata Tebaldi, Ljuba Welitsch, Birgit Nilsson, Joan Sutherland, Leontyne Price; the moving farewell of Geraldine Farrar; the dramatic "return" of Maria Callas after a six-year "feud" with Rudolf Bing:

Where the star system reigns supreme and Farrar had the last word even with Arturo Toscanini.

Next Swan

It is where Leo Slezak gazed at a departing mechanical swan pulling a raft on which he, as Lohengrin, should have been standing, and loudly inquired, "What time does the next swan leave?";

Where Russian bass Feodor Chaliapin, under cover of a language his audience didn't understand, once sang to his valet in the wings, "Go home and get me a suit of underwear" Where the great duo, Flagstad and Melchoir, sang naughty stories to each other in German, performance after Wagnerian performance, and the music critics never caught on.

However, the old house is an extremely inconvenient place in which to work. There's only one dressing room on each side of the stage so everybody except one male and one female star or the opera has to dash up and down tall flights of steep stairs to "attic" dressing rooms.

It is a house where the orchestra conductor in the pit is observed through a peephole in the side of the golden proscenium arch by an assistant conductor. The assistant conductor waves his hands in time with the conductor. He is observed from the wings by the chorusmaster who waves his hands in time with the assistant conductor.

Wagnerian Chorus

The Wagnerian chorus watches the chorusmaster. The soloists watch the man in the prompter's box. The orchestra watches the conductor. And everybody performs at top volume — hopefully together.

The new house will take care of those problems, and others. The present lighting system — just what can be beamed inconspiciously from the front of the chandelier — will be augmented. No longer will members of Local 1 of the Theatrical Protective Union stamp around outside throwing canvas blankets over the interior of Madame Butterfly's second-act Japanese house to protect it from a New York snowstorm and then truck her cherry tree back to a warehouse as soon as the first act is over.

"The millennium has not arrived. It's a wonderful new house, with wonderful new equipment. But not every seat will be orchestra center and not every singer will be great. Our basic policy will not change: we will still be trying to do good performances and sometimes succeeding," Bing says.

"However, there is just no question but that the new house was absolutely essential if operatic standards are to be maintained."

He is right. Of course he is right.

But on the night of April 16, there'll be frenzied, last-time recollections. "Why, I was here the night —" and "You know, of course, we haven't had a real Scarpia, or Tristan or Norma, at the Met since the days of—"

And when all the singing is done and the prolonged audience applause — like children pleading for one more bedtime story to keep the day from ending — the great gold curtain will close for the last time.

County Coroner Commended for Testing Program

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps has been commended by the Wisconsin Motor Vehicle Department for his cooperation in carrying out the chemical testing program in relation to fatal traffic accidents.

Kemps, who has been a strong advocate of the relatively new testing program, was told in a letter from Dan F. Schutz, director of the motor vehicle "Your 100 per cent testing record in 1965 deserves special commendation as a significant contribution to public safety. It has provided vital information which is beyond question or personal bias."

Schutz pointed out that the analyzing of body fluids of as many driver victims as possible is the only way the department can develop reliable information about the presence of alcohol as a contributing factor in accidents.

Flex Political Muscle

Student Voices Ring in Era of Communication

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Around the world, students are flexing political muscle, sometimes providing the weight which tips the scales of power in one direction or another.

Political violence by students is as old as universities themselves. But in a day of swift communication it is far more contagious than ever before.

An idea travels around the world in minutes. Thus, although 10,000 miles separated a student uprising in Indonesia from one in Latin America, the Indonesian upheaval may have played a significant role in the overthrow of a Latin-American military junta.

In turbulent Ecuador, a paper gave spectacular front-page play last Sunday to a dispatch from Jakarta telling in detail of a student crusade which helped sweep Communists out of the Indonesian government. It was labeled "heroic student task."

Ecuador Ferment

Ecuador already was in ferment, provoked by a strike of business and professional groups in Guayaquil, the country's second city, against the junta's economic measures. This week students took to the streets, adding their not inconsiderable clamor to rising public dissatisfaction with the regime. Some in Quito, the capital, suggested that the news from Indonesia provided inspiration

On Tuesday, Ecuador's junta gave way. The military high command announced its dissolution and the transfer of power to a civilian as head of a provision government.

Restless students are on the move around the world.

In South Viet Nam they have been turning out in the streets to demonstrate their dissatisfaction with lack of popular representation in a U.S.-backed military government preoccupied with war against a Communist revolution. The weight of their protests was sufficiently influential to bring promises of eventual civilian rule from the military leaders.

In South Korea over the past decade or more, students have clashed frequently with their government and today are a fountainhead of political unrest. They played a major role in bringing down the aged dictator, Syngman Rhee.

In Japan, students are in the forefront of violent political demonstrations.

Younger generation restlessness is a factor even in rigidly ruled Communist nations. Soviet authorities constantly are preoccupied with the attitudes of young people, particularly students and intellectuals and their apparent urges to liberalize the Soviet system. Such groups have been making their voices heard more frequently in the European Communist nations since the 1956 Hungarian revolt against communism.

Student eagerness for quick change, for power and for simple solutions to complex problems is pronounced in Latin America, where students are invariably in the vanguard of revolutionary movements. In the Dominican Republic where, after taking part in a violent rebellion, they have moved to the center of the stage in organized demonstrations on anti-Yankee themes Their current activities in Santo Domingo indicate that extreme left-wing and Communist groups have been busily recruiting among them.

Old Story

Student violence is an old story in Latin America. It was there long before communism Traditions moldy with age propel the university student into stormy politics in nations where university grounds are sacrosanct and cannot be invaded by authorities. The traditions were imported from Spain, Italy and France where, centuries ago, students and faculty shared university authority free of government interference.

Communists, realizing the enormous political potential of student bodies, long ago concentrated attention on that element. Sudents have proved easy targets for political opportunists.

Communist strategists evidently see promise in the penchant of young men for quick solutions. Older men know by experience that answers do not come quickly or simply.

Why students? Usually, they are sons and daughters of better-off people in such countries. Revolutionary ferment is not pronounced among what the Communists call "the masses," especially in poor countries where people lack physical energy and mental agility for organized violence.

Students have the energy and agility. In the eternal conflict between older and younger generations, they seem impatient for power and authority, impatient to prove their elders wrong.

The story is centuries old, the same with each succeeding generation. Frustration feeds youthful impatience. When the students themselves become the older generation, they, in turn, are opposed by the youngsters who come after them.

Lawrence University Set for $48,847 Grant For Study Program

Project to Include 50 Youngsters From Low Income Families in Greater Milwaukee

Lawrence University will receive a $48,847 federal grant for its "Upward Bound" project, Sargeant Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, announced today.

Aim of the project is to provide high school aged students, primarily sophomores and juniors from low income families, an opportunity for a college education by remedying poor academic preparation and helping the youths develop motivation.

50 Youngsters

Under the Lawrence project, 50 youngsters will be chosen, primarily from the Greater Milwaukee area, to participate in a summer study program. After the summer program, the students will return to their respective schools where they will receive counseling throughout the year and their progress will be checked on a continuing basis.

Next summer, the students, who will have graduated from high school, will return to Lawrence to receive additional preparatory courses and counseling for college.

Lawrence's share in financing the program will be approximately $5,649. The school had requested a $56,192 grant.

The summer, 1967, phase of the program will be financed through federal funds given to the Community Relations-Social Development Commission of Greater Milwaukee (SDC). Last month the DC approved the Lawrence project and committed a portion of its 1967 budget to the 1967 phase of the project.

SDC Approval

The approval of the SDC was needed as the students will be drawn from the Greater Milwaukee area, where the SDC is recognized by the federal government as a Community Action Agency.

George B. Walter, associate professor of education at Lawrence, will direct the program. Walter is also director of the teacher education program.

Marshall Hulbert, vice president, who helped prepare the program, said the university will employ Lawrence professors, high school instructors in the Fox Valley, and possibly several instructors from Milwaukee.

LaFollette Not Sure on Eyeing Governor's Job

Attorney General Hasn't Made Up Mind on Running

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Atty. Gen. Bronson C. LaFollette says he has not committed himself on the possibility that he might run for governor this year.

"I haven't really committed myself one way or the other," LaFollette told newsmen who queried him about the rumor. "There are several programs in the attorney general's office that I would like to see through to completion—the work is stimulating and challenging."

Publication Speculates

A newsletter of the Political Education and Action League, a business group which includes some political advisers of Republican Gov. Warren Knowles, speculated on the LaFollette candidacy during the weekend It said the Democratic attorney general had made several trips East "to discuss finances and support for a gubernatorial race."

The publication also suggested that LaFollette felt that supporters of David Carley and Lt. Gov Patrick J. Lucey were leading the state party into a "suicidal race" for governor "where the only possible winner can be Gov. Knowles."

Buckley to Assume Post April 19

New Officials Take Oath of Office

Mayor-elect George Buckley and four other city officials were administered the oath of office in a simple ceremony at the Appleton City Hall this morning.

Buckley will not officially assume his $14,000 a year job until April 19. However, he has called an informal meeting of the Appleton council Wednesday night.

Others sworn in for two-year terms were:

Starts 11th Term

—Assessor John Pierre, starting his 11th successive term. His pay has been boosted to $10,600 annually.

—City Clerk Elden Broehm, who will benefit from a $500 raise and will receive $9,100.

—City Treasurer Ray Feuerstein, also getting $500 more this year, boasting his salary to $9,100.

County Judge Urban Van Susteren, elected to his first full term last week, administered the oath collectively and individually to the five officials in the council chambers.

Buckley took the oath as the city's 41st mayor at 8:42 a.m., followed by the others.

Small Audience

The three persons in the audience included Geenen's wife, Charlene; Ralph Gertsch, Buckley's campaign manager, and Ralph Dorn, ward organizer for the mayor-elect.

None of the officials made any statements.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell was in the building but did not attend the ceremony. Mitchell, who said he has some vacation time coming, checked in with his office and left.

Mitchell, chairman of the board of public works by virtue of his office, did not know whether he would attend Tuesday afternoon's board meeting.

The city's new and re-elected aldermen will not officially take office until April 19. They serve two-year terms and receive $1,200 for the part-time job.

It costs the city $79,800 a year for salaries of elective officials, including $55,800 for the five constitutional officers and $24,000 for aldermen.

Buckley intends to visit with department heads at city hall this week.

Honor System Experiment At Einstein Junior High

14 Granted Passes on Trial Basis, Additions Considered

Privileges Include

Some of the privileges include going to the library from study hall at any time and after a class presentation has been given and the student is working on an assignment, without recording the time.

The student also will be allowed to go into the band room or to see another teacher who has a free period without a pass and can go to the office to use the typewriter for class projects.

Conference rooms also will be always open to the student.

To Show Confidence

The reason for starting the program was to show the student body that the teachers have confidence in them and to give them as much responsibility as they are capable of handling, according to Miss Shirley Wankey, in charge of the faculty advisory committee.

"After all, if we never trust then they won't know what to do with responsibility," she said.

The honor system will not, however, entitle the student to leave the building at any time or loiter in the halls, interrupt classes and enter the cafeteria when there is no study hall there.

Report Attendance

He will always have to report for attendance and his record will be evaluated periodically.

If the project works out satisfactorily, more students will be given these special privileges, according to Gene Britton, vice principal.

"We hope the 14 youngsters will set a good example and be an incentive for other pupils," he added.

Center Dean To Address Honor Society

R. E. Najem to Talk At Induction Fete At Kaukauna High

KAUKAUNA — Dr. Robert E. Najem, dean of the University of Wisconsin-Fox Valley Center, will be guest speaker at the annual induction ceremonies for the Augustin Grignon Honor Society at Kaukauna High School at 2 p.m. Thursday.

Students speaking will be Eric DeBruin on scholarship; Kristin DeBruin on leadership; Linda Plutchak, character, and Jeffrey Kobin, service. President Dale Schuh will be in charge.

The induction will be followed by a tea for new members, parents of honor society members and faculty. Student committee members planning the tea include Sherry O'Dell, Bridget McCarty, Sue O'Connor, Kristine DeBruin, Kristine Kindler, Kristine Kauth, Mary Jirikowc, Lynda Damro, Marsha Egan, Jerlyn Thiel, Vicki Weyers, Karlett Kuehn, Kirk Weber, Judith Wentzel, Eric DeBruin, Mary Joan Klister, Lynn Patterson, Kenneth Schmidt, Leonard Kasten, Jeffrey Kobin, Terry Kobin, Michael Gondek, Michael Walsh, Thomas Collins, Allan Skromme and Joseph Schouten.

Mrs. William Blajeski, home economics teacher, is faculty member in charge of the tea. Faculty adviser for the society is Miss Frances Corry.

Knowles Pleads for Appleton to Accept Site for University

Tells Lions That Location, Size Will Fulfill Long-Range Needs

Gov. Warren P. Knowles, today urged Appleton residents to "support the expansion of educational opportunities recommended by the Site Selection Committee, the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education and the State Building Commission." The governor was referring to the decision to build a new university on a site along Green Bay on the eastern edge of the city.

Speaking at a luncheon meeting of the Appleton Lion's Club in the Conway Hotel, Knowles explained the problems related to the selection of a site for a facility which is sought after by many communities.

"The problem of choosing sites for new universities in the northeastern and southeastern areas of Wisconsin is very much like the situation being faced now by the Atomic Energy Commission," the governor states. "Just last week, the chairman of the AEC and a team of experts visited the proposed sites for a new multi-million dollar atomic accelerator. One of the leading sites is at Stoughton, just outside of Madison.

"The AEC is looking for a site that is near a university, one that is accessible to thousands of visiting scientists, a large enough land area so the facility can be expanded in the future, and a spot that is geologically suitable. Naturally, there are hundreds of communities across the nation that would like to be selected, but the choice has been narrowed to six proposed sites; two in Illinois and one each in Michigan, New York, Colorado and Wisconsin.

"Each of these states," Knowles said, "is trying very hard to convince the AEC that it has the best site, although all of the Midwestern states are cooperating in an effort to bring the accelerator into a Midwest state.

"This is very similar to the competition that existed over the selection of a site for the new northeastern university. Many communities sought to be picked and made sincere efforts to persuade the Site Selection Committee that theirs was the best site.

"But ultimately," Knowles stated, "decisions must be made. There are bound to be many disappointed people. The important thing to remember, however, that that long-term, broad public interest must be the major consideration.

"The site recommended by the committee will serve the state's needs. It's size and location lends itself to the fulfillment of the educational requirements of this region, not for just the next 10 or 20 years, but for the next 50 or 100 years."

Cars Strike Utility Poles

Jammed Door Slows Rescuing Operations Of Trapped Youth

Robert T. Keller, 18, 1907 E. Frances St., sustained cuts and a possible skull fracture at 11:45 p.m. Sunday when the car he was driving went out of control and struck a utility pole in front of 1700 E. Wis Ave.

Keller was driving west on Wisconsin Avenue when the accident occurred. Appleton police, members of the fire department rescue squad and ambulance attendants freed Keller from the auto. A jammed door hampered rescue operations.

Keller said he lost control of his vehicle. Police reported no visible skid marks at the accident site. He was alone in the car. Keller was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by Larry's Ambulance Service.

Marie Coleman, 424 S. Shaefer St., a passenger in a car driven by Edward P. Dorn, 1515 Hall Ave., sustained a bruised shoulder, facial bruises and contusions on the right knee when the car struck a utility pole in front of 1419 S. Oneida St. at 1:15 a.m. today.

Police reported the Dorn vehicle was going north on S. Oneida St. and crossed to the left of the center line Police said the driver's vision was obstructed by a frosted windshield.

The injured woman was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by Larry's Ambulance.

It's Getting a Little Crowded

Appleton Officials Plan to Revive Touchy City Hall Space Problem

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The touchy city hall space problem (inner, not outer) gets revived again this week.

The problem, batted around since last year, is multiple as the board of public works and its subcommittee on inner space will agree.

In a nutshell — adequate office space has to be found for the city's new personnel director and first full-time city attorney. In addition, creation of a machine room will have top priority as it has over the past two years.

Hint Solution

There have been committees and subcommittees working on the monumental projects for some time, and today hinted a recommendation will be brought in later in the week to serve as a temporary solution to the space problem.

The ideal situation, according to one subcommittee member who wished to remain anonymous "because I'd just as soon delay the grief as long as possible," would be to:

1. Put the new personnel director on the first floor in the office now occupied by the city clerk.
2. Move the city clerk's office next door into a huge storage and records' area which he has been reluctant to give up in the past.
3. Keep the city treasurer's office where it is.

Northside Offices Same

Under the proposal, the personnel director, clerk and treasurer would occupy the south side of the building. Offices on the north side would remain the same, including those of the mayor, city treasurer and department of inspection.

In the past, City Clerk Elden Broehm has vigorously opposed relocating his office or using the area adjacent to it.

Such a move would also result in eliminating all governmental mail boxes being located just off the clerk's office.

The mail for municipal departments now goes through the city clerk's office. Under a new system, it would be delivered directly to each department.

Proposes Alternate

If the so-called ideal situation for finding new and relocating a few of the old offices is killed, a temporary alternate solution also will be proposed, it was learned.

It calls for keeping hands-off the clerk's office and storage room on the first floor.

The proposal would have the recreation department moving out of its basement offices and being transferred to the park department administrative building at 1205 W. Prospect Ave.

Space now occupied by the recreation department would be partitioned off to make room for the city attorney's office, a law library room, and office for the personnel director.

Wheels, Steering Gears Arrive For Derby Cars

Fifty sets of wheels and steering mechanisms have arrived and will be given out at Fire Station No. 1, according to Appleton Soap Box Derby director Frank Mueller.

He said that 44 more sets will arrive in about a week.

Ike Wolfgram has announced that the building clinic for derby contestants will be transferred from Fire Station No. 1 to Gibson Leasing Garage at 211 W. College Ave.

Jaycees will work with the boys in cutting out the pieces for their cars at the building clinic of which Gerald Schoepke is chairman.

Prosecuting Attorney Ill Arson Trial Postponed

Court Action Delayed for 14th Time, Suspects Bond Continued at $10,000

Trial for Richard Allen Cornelius, scheduled for 9:30 a.m. today, has been delayed to the same time next Monday because of the illness of Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer.

Cornelius, 20-year-old Milwaukee youth, charged with three counts of arson and one of criminal trespass, was alone in court today when the postponement was announced by County Judge Urban P. Van Susteren. This meant that Cornelius, formerly of rural West DePere apparently has not yet been able to retain an attorney at other than county expense.

Samuel Sigman, an Appleton attorney appointed to represent the youth, was formally relieved from the case early last week after his appointment was objected to by Cornelius. Sigman was the third court-appointed attorney to withdraw following objections by the youth.

Postponement Announced

The postponement was announced after court convened this morning in the circuit courtroom where the case was moved because Judge Van Susteren's courtroom would be too small to accommodate the large number of spectators expected.

Many spectators were on hand this morning, as were 34 men and women empaneled for a jury to hear the case, and several witnesses expected to testify.

Had the case gotten underway this morning, one of the first major orders of business would have been the selection of 12 jurors from the panel.

Fees and Mileage

All 34 persons, plus witnesses and bailiffs were entitled to fees and mileage reimbursement for their appearances this morning.

Schaefer said in court today that he began feeling ill late Sunday but did not ask for the delay until court was called this morning because he thought he might recover in time. Schaefer said he has what appears to be the flu.

Judge Van Susteren, in noting that the Cornelius case has been delayed many times, said it was the "first time a delay has been necessary because of the prosecution."

Previous Delays

Previous delays centered about the problems raised with Cornelius' objections to counsel appointed for him. He has insisted on his right to representation by a particular Appleton attorney whom both Judges Van Susteren and Gustave J. Keller before him have refused to appoint at county expense.

When asked if he had anything to say this morning, Cornelius, in court for the 14th time since his arrest hours after the fire Oct. 31 that burned a church and two barns in the Town of Oneida, replied to Judge Van Susteren, "I can't say anything, I don't have an attorney."

The judge continued bond for Cornelius at $10,000.

In Four-County Area

Feed Grain Expenditures Exceed $9 Million

BY PAT DUFFEY
Post-Crescent Farm Editor

Livestock and poultry feed costs for farmers in the four-county region of the Fox Valley reached $9.3 million for an average of $2.3 million per county, from 1959 through 1964, according to the U. S. Census Bureau's agricultural surveys. Included in the figures are Outagamie, Calumet, Winnebago and Waupaca counties.

Purchases of feed grains in the area cost $1.6 million or about $438,175 per county. Farmers had to pay $6.2 million for commercially mixed feeds, mill feeds and supplements, and $2.3 million for fertilizer and fertilizing materials.

In other big ticket purchases, farmers bought $4 million in petroleum fuels for the farm business, including $3.2 million in gasoline.

Custom and Contract Work

Custom and contract work, which is increasing in the area, cost $2.5 million or about $626,650 per county. The farm businessmen purchased cattle, hogs and sheep for $2.1 million.

There were 1,068,450 acres in farms in the Fox Valley area, or about 267,000 per county. The counties contain 7,510 farms with cropland harvested and 584,400 acres harvested. This amounts to 146,100 acres per county.

Here is a rundown by county of land in farms, land-use practices, equipment, facilities, expenditures and hired workers:

Farm Land Declined

OUTAGAMIE—Land in farm declined approximately 21,000 acres, to 324,880 during the half decade ending in 1964. Cropland was harvested on 2,435 farms, down from 2,712 farms, on 196,050 acres compared to 207,393 acres in 1959.

Cropland used only for pasture declined on 350 farms with 22,000 fewer acres to the current 33,637 acres. Non-harvested cropland and pasture jumped from 397 to 1,009 farms, or 9,689 acres to 22,496 acres.

Farmers worked to improve existing soils as noted by increased use of soil improvement grasses and legumes, from 90 to 720 farms covering 13,450 acres. Crop failures were reported on 115 farms covering 1,480 acres in 1964. Idle cropland on 387 farms totaled 7,566 acres.

Woodland pasture on farms declined from 84 to the present 627, indicating more woodlands were allowed to mature for future timber value. Woodland not pastured declined on 80 farms to the present 904 farms with 25,400 acres, an 800-acre drop.

Other Pastures

Other pastures declined on 304 farms, from 448 in 1959, possibly because of increased green feeding of forages in free stall housing units employing bunk feeders. Improved pastures showed a small gain to 59 farms with 878 acres.

Irrigated land in farms grew to three farms with 177 acres of which crops were harvested on 90 acres.

Most of the 450 crop diverted acres were devoted to feed grains and a lesser amount to wheat. Land in strip cropping systems for soil erosion control declined from 135 to 101 farms. Sixty-six ponds were constructed on 51 farms covering 496 acres in 1964.

Vehicle Decline

Farms with autos declined by 300 to 2,403 as did the number of vehicles indicating multiple car families on larger farms. Motortrucks dropped from 1,886 vehicles to 1,750. There were 250 fewer farms with tractors of all types but the number of vehicles increased almost 300 to 6,804.

There were 150 fewer grain and bean combines, but pickup balers increased from 950 to 1,134 pieces. There were 771 farms with hay conditioners. Crop driers declined from 75 to 32 farms, but there were 200 more corn pickers on farms.

Although field farms with forage harvesters decreased, the number of implements increased slightly to 1,483. Farms with phones declined, but those with television and home freezers increased. A number of farmers dropped milking machines (down 400 to 1,826) but bulk tanks increased from 370 to 975.

Feed Costs

Feed for livestock and poultry cost $3 million compared to $3.3 million in 1959 due to 500 fewer farms purchasing the supplies. There were 1,033 farmers who spent a total of $730,000 for feed grains in 1964; 1,935 purchased commercially mixed feeds, supplements costing $2.1 million.

There were 180,540 tons of hay purchased in 1964 by 613 farmers; livestock and poultry purchased declined from $1.1 million in 1959 to $953,000 on 300 farms. Cattle, hogs and sheep purchases by 866 farmers totaled $799,000. Fertilizer or fertilizer products cost $950,000 for 1,906 farmers in 1964.

Petroleum fuel purchases for the farm business were up $30,000 to $1.3 million despite a decline of 250 farmers. The largest ticket was for gasoline totaling $1 million in 1964.

Spent Less

Outagamie farmers spent $20,000 less on custom and contract work. Eighty fewer farms had hired workers but wages increased $169,000 for a total of $876,600, indicating longer periods of work and increased wages. Farmers employing labor for 150 days or more increased.

CALUMET — Land in farms dropped 2,000 acres to 188,000. Cropland was harvested on 1,450 farms in 1964, down 100 farms with 4,500 more acres harvested or 125,600.

Cropland was used only for pasture on 300 fewer farms and 8,000 less acres. Cropland not harvested or pastured gained 170 more or 380 farms for a total of 5,100 acres. Crop failures were reported on 46 farms with 568 acres in 1964. Idle cropland was 1,200 acres on 110 farms;

Returns From Viet Nam

Student Admires Troops; Understands Picketing

A Lawrence University student who was there bears no resentment toward anti-Viet Nam war pickets and nothing but admiration for the American troops and volunteer workers who are on the front in Southeast Asia.

Edward C. Logelin III, Chicago, is at Lawrence studying drama after seeing plenty of it during five months of duty as information specialist in Viet Nam.

"I didn't see a soft American in Viet Nam," Logelin said. "You're never in trouble — your buddy is, even though you're only a few feet from him. Everybody helps everybody else because you're all on the same team. For every medal awarded there are a dozen cases of heroism that go unnoticed."

That kind of spirit makes it somewhat difficult for servicemen to understand the attitude and actions of some of those who oppose U.S. policy in Viet Nam, Logelin said. As his group of Viet Nam-bound troops left the U.S., they were greeted by signs which read, "More hired killers for Viet Nam." The troops reacted first in anger, he said, but they they came to recognize the right of those opposing government policy to speak — as long as they live up to their responsibilities.

"None of us wanted to fight or die, either," he said, "but it's a price we have to pay for being American."

Logelin, son of a U.S. Steel official who set up the U.S. Steel Hour on radio, developed an early interest in the stage, radio and writing. At one time he thought of entering the ministry, but decided his talents could be better utilized as a layman. A prestyterian, he taught a Sunday School class for high school age children of Protestant servicemen at Fort Sheridan for 15 months. Because he was not much older that his students, he was able to "get through" to them, he said, and found it a very rewarding experience.

Attended College

Logelin spent three years at the College of Wooster (Ohio) before going into the army in 1964. He was sent to Viet Nam in September, 1965, as a clerk-typist. "Then they found I could write a little" and he became an information specialist. He was stationed at DiAn, but traveled around the country a lot before returning home Jan. 19. Two days later he was discharged and two days after that he was attending classes at Lawrence, three weeks late for the start of the term.

While in Viet Nam, Logelin also developed a sincere admiration for the work of the American Red Cross. The Red Cross office operated as sort of an auxiliary to the hospital, he said, and it was the only place servicemen could obtain emergency items, cards, games and books.

The Red Cross worker, a Southerner who had retired from the air Force, was always around. "He was somebody who could listen, and that 's important," Logelin said. "When communication bogged down. he could find out what the situation was back home. He was on duty as much as any officer or enlisted man. When working with the wounded, he was there with the little things that make the day seem much easier to take."

Invaluable Contact

The Red Cross worker also proved to be an invaluable contact for Logelin in his job. He was able to establish genuine rapport with the men without impressing upon them that "the Red Cross is here" and gave Logelin much help in ferreting out feature stories on the men about whom he was writing.

Logelin plans to spend about two years at Lawrence, then do graduate work in law or drama. His interest continues in radio and television and he wants to do more writing. Along the way — he plans to play a little football, take part in track and continue his studies in drama — his first love — where "the hours don't matter."

Ed Logelin agreed to tell of his experiences in Viet Nam because he wanted to help the Outagamie Red Cross in its annual fund drive. Part of the money raised in the drive, now nearing its conclusion, is used to finance Red Cross efforts in assisting the men in Viet Nam and their families. Contributions may be sent to the Outagamie Red Cross, 110 E. North St., Appleton.

March Building Increases Over Previous Year

First Quarter Total Ahead of 1965 With $1,257,697 Figure

It raised the year's total for the first quarter to $1,257,697, slightly ahead of 1965.

Building inspector Richard Atkins said 19 new residences were started last month, representing $350,000 in new building.

Two major projects started were a $104,000 church and $130,000 power sub-station for the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co.

Siding companies have been busy in Appleton with permits issued for 16 jobs at an estimated cost of $23,000.

March added a stimulant to the local building picture which has been somewhat depressed compared to the activity in the area.

In January permits were issued for $320,175 in new buildings and the February total hit $255,000.

Atkins also said there is some building activity in the indusstrial park where the Sheltered Workshop, Inc., 1325 S. Perkins St., got a permit for an $8,000 masonry-steel warehouse addition.

3rd Menasha Park Board Member Quits

MENASHA — A third resignation from the park and recreation board since Mayor John Klein's election defeat was revealed today.

Klein said Salvatore "Sam" Porto, chairman of the board's finance committee, has submitted his resignation.

Following the election last week, the board chairman, Linus Pfankuch, and Mrs. Hayward Biggers, resigned.

All three vacancies will come before Mayor-elect Kenneth Holmes after he takes office. The board has 7 appointive positions.

Porto, who was appointed four years ago by Klein and was since reappointed to serve until July 1, 1967, said today the press of other business led him to make his decision.

Pfankuch's resignation had made Porto a likely choice for the chairmanship.

Pfankuch also gave other business as the reason for dropping his board position. Mrs. Biggers said she resigned because of personal reasons.

Porto today was emphatic in stating his resignation had nothing to do with the recent election. As a former alderman, he said, both Mayor Klein and Mayor-elect Holmes are friends of his. Pfankuch had previously also avoided inferences of political implications.

Steger Trial Set May 11

OSHKOSH — Further proceedings were set by County Judge James Sitter for May 11 on a disorderly conduct charge brought against Arthur Steger, 19, 115 Harrison St., Neenah. Steger pleaded no contest to the charge last week. He was arrested in the 500 block on Main Street Friday.

Overly's Inc. Names Head of Engineering

NEENAH — Donald W. Lawton has been named manager, engineering services, by Overly's, Inc.

Overly's specializes in the manufacture of drying and air systems for the paper and printing industries. In addition, it engineers and produces a wide variety of metal fabrications.

Lawton

Lawton, 32, is a 1958 mechanical engineering graduate of Wentworth Institute, Boston. He earlier studied engineering at Worcester Jr. College, Worcester.

Overly's new manager, engineering services, spent nearly three years in service His tour of duty included time in Korea and Japan between 1953 and 1956

Spring Months Dangerous

Red Cross Outlines Rules for Tornado Survival Procedures

Since spring traditionally sees tornadoes cutting paths of destruction across the United States, the Red Cross, with the cooperation of the United States Weather Bureau, has drawn up these simple shelter suggestions.

To insure the safety of your family and yourself, keep copies of these suggestions at home, at work, and in your car. Suggestions should only be carried out after a tornado alert has been issued over the radio for the area in which you live.

If you're home—go to the basement. Take shelter in the southwest corner after seeing that the windows and doors on the north and east side of your home have been opened. Take a transistor radio with you. Know how to turn off fuel lines and electricity, should the need arise. If your home or neighbor's homes do not have basements, lie down flat in a ditch or nearby ravine.

If you're in your car—get out and lie down in a ditch. Be certain you are not lying in a direction that might cause trees or the car to be blown onto you.

If you're in an office building—go to the basement. If the building has no basement, stand against an inside wall on the lowest floor.

If you're in a school—a well built one, line up against the lowest floor inside walls. Avoid taking shelter in gyms or auditoriums with large, not sturdily supported, roofs. If the school does not have strongly reinforced walls, take shelter in a storm cellar or nearby ditch or ravine Be certain all lie flat if this is necessary.

If you're in an industrial plant—the safety department should appoint one person as a lookout to report the tornado's approach. Workers should be prepared to take shelter next to sturdy inside walls on lowest floors. Fuel lines and electricity should be ready to be turned off speedily if plant is in the tornado's path.

Red Cross advises that it's vital for all persons to keep calm and keep their radios turned on for tornado alert reports. Red Cross emphasizes that the Weather Bureau should not be called except to report sighting of a tornado cloud. If a tornado strikes a building in your vicinity, the police department and Red Cross should be contacted.

Girl Enjoys Happy Easter After Open Heart Surgery

MENASHA — A tiny girl was all smiles as she celebrated Easter at the home of her parents following a crucial operation two weeks ago to assure her of a normal life.

Dawn Marie Kraus, 2½-year-old daughter of Mr and Mrs. Ronald Kraus, 632 Ninth St, returned home from the University Hospital in Madison last Saturday.

A team of surgeons at the hospital worked for seven hours and 45 minutes March 16 to perform open heart surgery to correct a condition the girl had had since birth

Dawn has left her bed but will have to have intensive care for the next six weeks, Mrs. Kraus said.

The couple also has another child, Sherry Lee, 4½.

Menasha Lions Will Celebrate 30th Anniversary

MENASHA — The 30th anniversary of the Menasha Lions club will be celebrated at a dinner meeting April 30.

The 7:15 p.m. meeting at the Menasha Hotel will feature as guest speaker Edward Eick, past International Lions Club director. Eick is an attorney in Chilton.

The Lions Club was initiated in Menasha late in 1935 and began its work in helping the blind after its charter was signed March 31, 1936. The Appleton Lions Club was the group's sponsor.

Meetings were first held at the Memorial Building where the first president, the late Urban Remmel, started the group on its 30 year history.

The group works toward aiding blind persons or persons with poor eyesight. A camp in Rosholt, Wis., is supported by Lions clubs. Persons from this area are sent to the camp under the sponsorship of the local club.

$6.4 Million in Taxes Collected to Date in Appleton

The figure, City Treasurer Ray Feuerstein said today, includes the $878,170 state credit refund payment from the sales tax.

With July 31 the deadline for paying local taxes on the three-part installment plan, slightly more than $2 million remains to be collected. The tax roll total was $8,483,492.

Feuerstein reminded the second installment is due April 30, and the third on July 31.

April 15 Last Day For Tax Returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taxpayers won't get an extension this year of the April 15 deadline for filing their individual income tax returns, the Internal Revenue Service said today.

Friday, April 15 is a regular business day, an IRS spokesman said. He added the only time the deadline is extended is when April 15 falls on a Saturday, Sunday or a legal holiday.

To meet the deadline, IRS said returns should be postmarked no later than midnight this coming Friday.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market faltered somewhat early this afternoon.

Trading was heavy on the New York Stock Exchange. Volume also was heavy on the American Stock Exchange.

The airlines, which were strong in early trading, weakened.

Trans World Airlines declined 1½ to 78⅞ after announcement that Howard Hughes will sell his 6,584,937 TWA common shares to the public. Earlier it was off 3⅞

Braniff Soars

Braniff Airways soared 8 points to 142½ on an opening block of 3,300 shares.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was ahead .5 at 350.1 with industrials up .2, rails up 5 and utilities up .4.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off 1.33 to 944.43.

Tipsy Driver Fined $175

T. C. Schwanke, Kimberly, Loses License for Year

Thomas C. Schwanke, 28, 225 N. Sidney St., Kimberly, was fined $175 and costs or 70 days in jail after he pleaded guilty this morning of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants.

In addition, County Judge Gustave J. Keller ordered Schwanke's driver's license revoked for one year.

The Kimberly man was arrested by Appleton police in the 1000 block of E. Wisconsin Avenue about 10 p.m. Sunday. Police said they began following his car after they clocked it with radar for speeding. They then noticed the erratic course of the vehicle, they stated.

Optimists to Hear Youth's Contest Winning Speech

The Breakfast Optimist Club will hold its Boy of the Month Program Tuesday morning with Neale Caflisch, Brillion High School, district oratorical contest winner giving his winning address.

Second place winner, Jim Michels, will also deliver his contest oration.

Robert Kools was elected president at the April 5 meeting. Other officers are Carl Huebener, first vice president; Norvell H. Bergaman, second vice president; director for a one-year term is Earl Arnold, and two-year term directors are Gary DeFere, John Grootemont and Harland J. Moder.

The presidents quarterly club assembly will be conducted by Andrew Blackburn at the Appleton Kiwanis Club meeting Wednesday noon at the Conway Hotel.

A progress appraisal will be the nature of the program along with the induction of new members. A movie, "The Man Who Wears the 'K' " will be presented.

Evening Lions Club members will meet at the YMCA for a 6:30 p.m. dinner Tuesday and a tour of the facility.

Court Spectator Collapses, Taken To Hospital

Richard Abel, 68, 221 N. State St., a long-time courtroom spectator, collapsed on the third floor of the Outagamie County courthouse about 10 a.m. today. Abel was rushed to Appleton Memorial Hospital where hospital sources reported his condition as "not critical."

Abel had just left a county courtroom when he collapsed. Members of the Outagamie County Sheriff's Department administered oxygen, using a portable unit, until Lindy's Ambulance Service aides arrived.

Abel was the second courtroom spectator to collapse at the courthouse during the past five days. Last Thursday Hubert Christel, 57, of 629 S. Story St., collapsed after attending a Circuit Court case. Christel was returned to his home by Larry's Ambulance Service after a brief check-up at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Christel also has been a regular attendee at courthouse happenings for several years.

Vandals Damage 3 Parked Cars

NEENAH — Vandals damaged three cars parked in lots over the weekend, police reported.

Mrs. John Williams, 271 Marathon St., told police someone broke the antenna off her car as it was parked in the driveway.

Mrs. Raymond Schwerin, route 2, Neenah, said an outside mirror was smashed while her car was parked in a lot off W. Canal Street.

Thomas Jones, 1073 Gillingham Road, reported someone scratched the paint on his vehicle with a sharp instrument as the car was parked in a lot at 231 Main St.

Aid Available For Vocational Training Plan

Program Proposed At Brillion Would Augment School

BRILLION — The cooperative vocational training program for high school juniors and seniors being planned here is classified as a pilot project and funds will be available at least by Sept. 1, 1966, to the full extent of the Vocational Act of 1963, according to word received this week from the State Department of Public Instruction.

School and industrial officials from Chilton, Stockbridge, Hilbert, Reedsville, Wrightstown, Denmark, Valders and Brillion have indicated an interest in the program which will offer courses in printing, foundry operation, mechanics, auto and truck body work and metal fabrication.

According to School Superintendent Gaylord Unbehaun, a letter has been received from William Kohl, deputy superintendent of the Department of Public Instruction, offering his encouragement and the services of the department to help make the project possible and successful.

Promise Support

Another letter from Clarence Grieber, director of the Department of Vocational and Adult Technical Education, indicates full support and assistance of that department in establishing this new venture.

Representative John Race (D-Fond du Lac) has written indicating extreme enthusiasm and noting that he will seek all possible avenues of aid through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

General Motors Corp. has offered considerable assistance with equipment and the Ford Motor Co. will give $2,500 worth of equipment as soon as the program is assured of becoming operational.

Equipment valued at more than $8,000 is earmarked for the program from local industries. Many hours have been spent in the past several weeks by local industrial representatives to lay out a workable floor plan and to determine equipment necessary to operate the proposed classes.

Purchase Equipment

Unbehaun and the high school guidance director, Harry Drier, purchased equipment from the Army surplus property warehouse in Madison Thursday when they were in the state capital to discuss the program with representatives of the State Department of Public Instruction. The materials are worth more than $16,000 when new and were purchased for $70, according to Unbehaun.

Several high schools have definitely committed themselves to the program with a specific number of students who will participate. A firm commitment from other schools is anticipated following area board of education meetings this week.

Scheduling of students, transportation facilities and per-student costs are yet to be determined.

High School administrators, principals and guidance counselors have been asked to attend a meeting at 2 p.m. April 21 at the Brillion city hall to further discuss the program.

22-Year-Old Fined $40 for Drunkenness

Thomas Schlack, 22, 821½ Spring St., Kaukauna, this morning was fined $40 and costs or 18 days in jail following his plea of guilty to a charge of intoxication.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

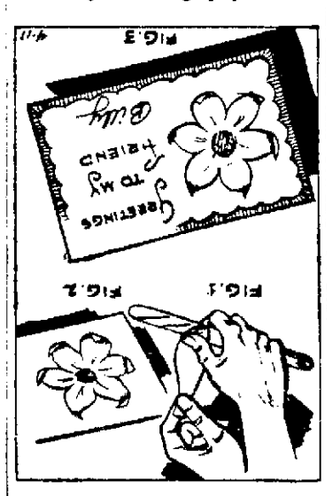
Make Birthday Greeting And Send One to Your Friend

BY CAPPY DICK

An unusual birthday card to make for a friend is today's fun-project for boys and girls. The card has a paper flower on it with curled petals.

For the card itself cut a piece of heavy drawing paper to a size slightly smaller than the envelope in which you will mail it.



Use tissue petals

From tissue paper of a color that contrasts with the color of the card, cut a flower with six or more petals (see Figure 2). This is to be pasted on the card after the ends of the petals have been curled upward by passing them between your thumb and the edge of a table knife as in Figure 1.

Color the center of the flower with brown crayon. Touch the back of the flower's center with library paste and press it to one end of the card. The petals are not to be pasted, but are to remain curled upward.

Print a message, wishing your friend a happy birthday. Sign your name and the card is ready to mail. Seal it in the envelope addressed to your friend, affix the stamp and drop it into the mailbox. Remember to use the zip code number!

Dallas to Include Other Historical Events on Assassination Marker

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Dallas Park Board has voted to retain descriptions of other historical events on the marker to be placed on the spot where President John F. Kennedy was assassinated.

The board, rejecting objections of a group which wanted the site to be a memorial only to the late president, said other historic events on the site were also important.

Favor Detroit After Drubbing Of Hawks, 7-0

Red Wings Even Playoffs at 1-1; Next Duel Tuesday

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings, humbled and walked upon by the Chicago Black Hawks all season long, erupted vengefully Sunday to take the favorites' role in their Stanley Cup semifinal playoff series.

After losing to Chicago 11 times during the regular season against one victory and two ties, and dropping the opener of the best-of-seven series, 2-1, the Red Wings hammered the Hawks 7-0 Sunday.

The victory not only squared the series at one game each but had a national television audience wondering how Chicago could have manhandled Detroit throughout the season.

"All I can say is it's a long time coming," said Detroit Manager Coach Sid Abel. "We didn't win here all year long and I guess we were due."

Was No Contest

Hawk Coach Billy Reay said, "It was no contest. We have to forget about this one and think about the next game. They outworked us and outskated us. I guess everything caught up with us at the same time."

Nicklaus, Jacobs, Brewer Duel in Masters Playoff

Trio Concludes 72 Holes With Par 288s; Palmer and Sanders Finish Two Strokes Behind

By KEN ALYTA

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Tommy Jacobs and Gay Brewer, a couple of outsiders, were overshadowed by the menacing, dominant figure of Jack Nicklaus going into today's three-way, 18-hole playoff for the green coat that goes to the Masters champion.

"I've blown three chances," the defending champion growled after finishing the regulation 72 holes in a tie with Jacobs and Brewer at 288, even par for the demanding Augusta National Course.

"I don't intend to blow another."

Jacobs and Brewer had already finished and were sitting nervously on the sidelines Sunday when Nicklaus missed by about two inches on a 25-foot birdie putt on the 18th that would have won it for the Golden Bear.

When it just missed, Jacobs and Brewer suddenly — and just for today — were elevated to The Big Three the exclusive club more normally composed of Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player who shared the title in this classic seven of the last eight years.

Palmer made his bid and failed, finishing two strokes back. Player never was in it.

The playoff was scheduled for 1:45 p.m., (EST) with national television (CBS) of the concluding holes starting three hours later. In the event of a further tie, sudden death will be in effect, starting at the first hole.

It's the fifth playoff in Masters history and the second involving three players.

The winner will get a check for $20,000. The runnerup will receive $12,300 and third place will be worth $8,300. The total purse was $152,880, an increase of $15,205 over last year.

Nicklaus, gunning for a third Masters title and a record second straight, has had rounds of 68-76-72-72; Brewer has turned in scores of 74-72-72-70 and Jacobs has scored 75-71-70-72.

The 34-year-old Brewer, little more than a journeyman professional for most of 10 years, blossomed out as winner last fall and has won four events since then, including the Pensacola, Fla., Open last month.

Brewer, born in Middletown, Ohio, and raised in Lexington, Ky., had appeared on his way to a surprise victory before a gallery estimated at 50,000.

But on the final hole he three-putted for his only bogey of the day in a round of 70, two under par. He had shouldered the burden of the lead since the ninth hole and had borne up admirably under the twin pressure of setting the pace and playing with four-time winner Arnold

Koufax, Drysdale Close Spring Stint In Strong Fashion

Osteen to Hurl Dodgers' 1966 Opener Against Houston Tuesday

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale aren't acting any more.

That became apparent during the weekend when baseball's first $100,000-plus pitching pair, holdouts until 12 days ago, put in strong bids for opening-week starting assignments with the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers.

Koufax pitched six innings of no-hit ball, striking out nine and retiring the last 16 men in order, as the Dodgers defeated Cleveland 3-0 Saturday. Then Sunday, Drysdale pitched six innings of shutout ball, allowing just six singles and striking out four in a 6-0 victory over the Indians.

The performances in the closing exhibition games left the aces of the Dodger staff, who combined for 49 victories last year, anxious to make their first starts sometime this week.

"Be Ready Wednesday"

"I'll be ready to pitch Wednesday and I'll go as far as I can," said Koufax. But he cautioned that "we'll just have to wait and see how far that can be."

"I feel the same way," said Drysdale. "I'll be ready Friday and I'll pitch as many innings as I can."

Koufax, as a matter of fact, will be getting a jump on last year's pitching schedule if he opens Wednesday — the Dodgers' second game — since his arthritic elbow kept him on the sidelines until the fourth game last season.

Claude Osteen draws the opening day assignment for the world champions. He is scheduled to go against veteran Robin Roberts of Houston as the regular season gets into full swing with an eight-game program following Monday's traditional openers at Washington and Cincinnati.

Humphrey to Relieve

With President Johnson remaining in Texas for an Easter holiday, Vice President Humphrey will be his reliever, throwing out the first pitch of the season as the Senators meet Cleveland.

Then Pete Richert will take the mound for Washington while Sam McDowell, the American League's answer to Koufax, starts for the Indians. At Cincinnati, the 82nd National League opener will match the New York Mets and Jack Fisher against the Reds and Milt Pappas.

Tuesday's schedule shows five day games and three nighters. The American League has most of the day action with Kansas City at Minnesota, Detroit at New York, Baltimore at Boston and California at Chicago.

Chicago also will be at San Francisco for a day game with the remainder of the National League schedule at night. Pittsburgh will play the first major league game at Atlanta, Philadelphia will be at St. Louis and Houston at Los Angeles.

Angels Move South

Besides Atlanta, one other franchise shift has been made—the Angels moving south from Los Angeles to Anaheim — but six clubs will show off new managers.

The Cincinnati - New York meeting focuses on two of the rookie managers, with Don Heffner making his debut as the Reds' field boss and Wes Westrum beginning his first full year as Casey Stengel's successor with the Mets.

Other new managers are Leo Durocher with the Cubs, Eddie

Merb Optimistic

Lawrence '9' Scheduled To Meet St. Norbert In Opener Wednesday

Cautious optimism is the keynote as the Lawrence University baseball team makes ready for its 1966 opener against St. Norbert College Wednesday.

Head mentor Roger Merb, in his first year of coaching at Lawrence, envisions improvement over last season's 2-9 mark and has set his sights on capturing the Midwest Conference's northern division title, a feat no Viking diamond squad has accomplished in the sport's 9-year stay at Lawrence.

"Although I know very little of the caliber of the teams we will be playing, I feel we should be able to hold our own against most of our opponents," observed the former Ohio University football and baseball star.

The Vikes' pitching corps appears well staffed with 2-year all-conference selection Steve Bernsten expected to be as tough as every.

Slated to Start

A flame-throwing righthander, Bernsten topped both the pitching and hitting statistics of last season and is slated to start against St. Norbert.

Senior Chris Isley, a curveballing lefty, made a good showing as a starter a year ago, but is currently being counted on as a relief specialist. Sophomore Chris Olsen, who showed considerable promise as a freshman, is tabbled with the other starting role. Soph reliever Dick Briden rounds out the 4-man staff.

Behind the plate will be Jeff Riley or Gary Hietpas, both sophomores, the latter playing first base when not catching. Hietpas, who batted at a .670 clip as a freshman should supply much of the Vikes' long-ball power.

The infield will find either Hietpas or Bernsten at first, sophomore Dennis Kirchoff or junior Don Foster on second, sparkled as a freshman, covering shortstop and either junior Bruce Elliott or sophomore Rod Clark manning the hot corner.

Isley will operate in center field when not hurling, while the leftfield post will go to either sophomore Ken Luckhardt or junior John Scales. Playing in rightfield will be sophomore Don Brooke or sophomre Mark Wilterding.

Three other candidates for an outfield position are sophomores "Chip" Taggart and Jim McInnes and junior Kit Vernon.

Merb reported that Hietpas, Smith, Kirchoff, Elliott and Luckhardt have looked sharp in pre-season batting drills.

All home games are tentatively set to be played in Kimberly.

Anti-Trust Trial Verdict Postponed

Roller's Decision Expected Tuesday

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The verdict in Wisconsin's antitrust battle with baseball now is expected to come only hours before the former Milwaukee Braves are scheduled to open in Atlanta Tuesday.

White - haired Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller, who worked from morning until past midnight Easter Sunday preparing his decision, said he did not expect to be ready to announce the ruling until Tuesday morning.

The State of Wisconsin is asking that the Braves be ordered to return immediately to Milwaukee unless and until expansion is assured. Should it win its suit, the verdict could leave the National League wrapped in a legal web of epic complications at the very outset of the season.

Ended Wednesday

The 38-day antitrust trial, with more than a million words written into the record, ended last Wednesday with a dramatic offer by the state to drop its demand for the Braves return if the National League would promise Milwaukee an expansion team, not this year, but next.

Rumors of a settlement since have come and gone. Nothing of substance has surfaced.

Baseball Commissioner William Eckert said last week the Wisconsin offer would be studied. He said nothing over the weekend. In both Milwaukee and New York, there were uniform denials that any contacts toward a compromise had been made.

Should Wisconsin win an order for the Braves' return, state attorneys say they expect to enforce it through courts in home states of other National League clubs. Baseball attorneys say enforcement will be impossible.

The Boston-born Braves, who stopped over in Milwaukee for 13 years, are slated to open the 1966 season in Atlanta at 8 p.m., EST, Tuesday. Judge Roller's ruling is likely to come only 10 hours earlier, probably about 9 a.m., CST, and only a couple of hours before Atlanta's welcoming parade for the Braves down Peachtree Street.

Complex Decision

Judge Roller first had set Saturday, then today as a target for his ruling, but said Sunday night he didn't expect to finish writing the bulky, complex decision until this evening.

Roller said if he failed to complete the opinion in time to have it delivered this afternoon before the Milwaukee offices of the lawyers involved closed, he would be forced to wait until Tuesday morning to announce the decision.

"Lawyers shouldn't read about it in the newspapers or hear it on TV," the Judge said.

Asked if Tuesday morning was the most likely time for the ruling to be revealed, Roller answered, "That's probably the case."

Aaron Gives Mantle One Of His Bats

"Hank gave it to me," the New York Yankee outfielder said, explaining that he asked the Braves' slugger for the bat. "I figure if he can hit .320 for 10 years with it, I should try it," Mantle said.

Actually, Mantle wanted the bat for the early season cold weather since the Aaron model has a thicker handle than his regular bat.

Three Vaulters Fail in Attempt To Set Record

WALNUT, Calif. (AP) — Attempts by pole vaulters John Pennel, Bob Seagren and Sam Kirk to set world records failed in an open track meet here even though all three vaulters topped 17-1.

Pennel and Seagren — both affiliated with the Southern California Striders — are nationally known vaulters who have previously topped 17 feet.

Kirk, however, had a previous lifetime best of 16-3. He is with the Pasadena Athletic Association.

After the three succeeded at 17-1 Saturday, meet officials at Mt. San Antonio College pushed the bar to 17-4, three-quarters of an inch above the mark held by Fred Hansen.

Estranged Spouse Making Easter Visit Shoots Wife, Self

Ripon Painter Chases Fleeing Spouse Through Quiet Backyards

RIPON (AP) — A rifle-wielding housepainter chased his screaming wife and three daughters through backyards of a quiet neighborhood Sunday afternoon, killed his wife and took his own life as police rushed into the driveway.

Two patrolmen saw Harold Tobolt, 49, corner his estranged wife, Elma, 38, by the family car and shoot her, then heard the shot as he fled behind his house to shoot himself.

The Easter Sunday deaths were ruled by Fond du Lac County Coroner Frank H. Decker as murder and suicide.

The coroner said the couple had been separated about a month. He said Tobolt had come to his family's house for an Easter visit.

Three Daughters

The couple's three daughters, Nancy, 17, Barbra, 16, and Wanda, 7, were upstairs when they heard their mother scream and ran down to see Tobolt yank a telephone from the wall and hurl it at his wife, Decker said

The painter and parttime gardener went outside as Mrs. Tobolt locked the doors, authorities said. He returned with a .22 caliber pump-action rifle, apparently taken from his car, and smashed it through a window to unlock the back door, Patrolman Clarence Lukoski said.

Mrs. Tobolt and the daughters fled out the front door and ran to the back of a neighbor's house to try to take refuge inside. Lukoski said. The neighbor was away.

Tobolt chased them, firing wildly as he ran, Decker reported.

Neighbor Called Police

Lukoski said Mrs. Tobolt had been wounded twice and was trying to hide behind the family car as he and Patrolman Roman Dwolski pulled into the driveway.

Lukoski said he saw Tobolt fire across the hood of the car. Mrs. Tobolt collapsed.

"She was trying to duck when he fired," Lukoski said "As he fired the third shot, he heard our siren He stepped behind the house and we heard the shot."

Tobolt was struck in the right eye and was killed outright, Decker said.

Mrs. Tobolt was hit by bullets in the abdomen, right shoulder and neck, the coroner said. He said she died 20 minutes later at a Ripon hospital.

Relief Pitcher Humphrey Lobs First Baseball

Johnson Sets No Time for Return From Texas Ranch

By FRANCES LEWINE

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson got a relief pitcher to open the American League baseball season in Washington today so he could stay on and enjoy a post-Easter holiday at his Texas ranch.

He set no time for his return to the capital.

He told reporters to go "kick up your heels" in San Antonio, the press headquarters 65 miles away, indicating he didn't want them to zero in on his activities during his ranch vacation.

The President's press spokesmen had no comment on events in Viet Nam, where internal politics and anti-American demonstrations have brought military operations almost to a standstill.

Easter Protest

There was no comment, either, on demonstrations by about 50 pickets who staged an Easter vigil outside the LBJ Ranch Sunday to protest the war in Viet Nam.

Their three-hour demonstration drew a crowd of spectators. Among the cars driving slowly by was a blue convertible in which the President's daughter, Luci, 18, and her fiance, Patrick J. Nugent, 22, Waukegan, Ill., were traveling on their way for an afternoon of boating at nearby Lake Lyndon B. Johnson.

The President over the weekend signed into law a bill authorizing a $750,000 official residence for the vice president. But, he said he agreed with Humphrey that this is not the appropriate time to spend the money and its construction should be put off for the time being.

Surgeon Going To Small Town 'To be of Use'

Late Pope Credited With Inspiring Him To Share With Others

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — "The thought that maybe I could be of greater use somewhere else began to haunt me," a surgeon said as he explained why he is leaving a well-established practice to go to a small town.

Dr. Walter A. Mendyka, 42, leaves Tuesday for Machias, Maine, population 3,500, to practice where he believes there is a great need.

"I guess the idea was born during the reign of Pope John XXIII," said Mendyka, who has been practicing in Cleveland since 1956

"As I learned more about him and his works, I got the idea that I should do more to share with others the good things God has given me and my family."

The rest of the Mendykas — 11 children and his wife, Frances — will leave their 12-room house and follow him to Maine after the school year.

Decided On Christmas

Dr. Mendyka, a staff member of St. John's Hospital, said he learned of the need for a surgeon in Machias last November. He and his wife decided on the move Christmas Eve and told their children Christmas Day.

"We didn't know how the children would react," Mrs. Mendykas said. "They accepted it cheerfully."

Mendyka visited the town — 80 miles east of Bangor and 25 miles southwest of Franklin D. Roosevelt's retreat at Campobello — and liked the people, the town and the 36-bed hospital, which he said is one of the most modern he has seen.

Dr. Mendyka said only about half the beds in the hospital are used because people in the area have to travel 80 miles or more for surgical care.

About leaving their parents, other relatives and friends, Mrs. Mendyka said: "We'll miss them all But this is the price we will pay for the satisfaction we'll gain."

Dock Strike Stops Ship's Unloading

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Pra River, first ocean-going vessel to reach Milwaukee in the 1966 Great Lakes shipping season, planned to sail today without unloading because of a docks dispute

A shipping agent, James Fiers, said the Pra River would leave for either Chicago or Detroit to unload its 480-ton cargo of cocoa beans.

Work on the docks here has been halted for four days because of a breakdown in contract talks between terminal operators and longshoremen. The firms said they would not ask the longshoremen to work until the stalemate was broken.

Federal mediator Eugene Mlynek said he would call a meeting Tuesday morning to resume talks.

The negotiations were broken off Thursday night minutes before the Pra River arrived from Nigeria. The Ghanian vessel was the earliest arrival here in the seven-year history of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

A shipping agent said the Pra River was losing up to $1,500 a day while it stood idle at the docks here

Cruiser Being Towed

Salvage Fight Starting Over Viking Princess

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The blackened hulk of the cruise ship Viking Princess, apparently involved in a salvage fight, was somewhere south of Cuba today, being towed toward Jamaica.

The once gleaming white $16-million pleasure craft, which carried carefree passengers on winter Caribbean cruises, burned Friday morning in the Windward Passage, between Cuba and Haiti, while sailing to Miami with 496 passengers and crew members.

Two passengers died of heart attacks when the ship was ordered abandoned shortly after a fire and explosion had occurred in the engine room.

After the flames had died, a Liberian freighter, the Navigator, put a line on the abandoned vessel and started towing it toward Jamaica, according to the Navy's Atlantic Fleet Headquarters in Norfolk, Va.

Joined By Tug

The Navigator was joined Sunday by the salvage tug Cable out of Key West, Fla., hired by the owners of the Viking Princess.

Salvage rights to the Viking Princess appeared to be in dispute.

Navy and Coast Guard vessels, which had aided in the evacuation of the passengers and crew, left the scene Sunday, saying there was nothing more they could do

Capt. Otto Thoresen, credited with saving the lives of many of the passengers and crew by ordering the ship abandoned, said in Miami Sunday that salvage rights on the ship would be left up to the insurance companies. Thoresen, a veteran of many years at sea, was the last man to leave the stricken vessel

The ship is owned by a Norwegian company, Berge Sigval Bergsen, and is operated by Flagship Lines Agency, Inc., of New York.

Rejection Predicted For Highway Measure Called Fake by Hanson

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Democratic State Chairman J. Louis Hanson said Sunday that legislators in his party would reject a proposed bonding program for highway construction despite its endorsement by Democratic Lt. Gov. Patrick J. Lucey.

Hanson labeled the program suggested by Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles as a fake. He said taxpayers would still have to pay for the highways no matter how much money is borrowed through bonds and predicted the program would require a tax increase by 1996.

Hanson, interviewed by a Milwaukee television station, said that although Lucey, presiding officer in the state Senate, has endorsed the program, the Democratic members of the Legislature would rather pay for the highways as they are built.

Indian Affairs Bureau Hit For Holding Onto Its Wards

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate Interior Committee report has sharply criticized the Bureau of Indian Affairs and accused it of "tenaciously holding onto its wards" in order to stay in business.

The criticism was contained in a report in which the committee approved unanimously the nomination of a Wisconsin-born Oneida Indian, Robert L. Bennett, as Indian commissioner.

"In recent years," the report said, "there has been virtually no legislation recommended by the Department of the Interior to place other tribes or groups in a similar situation."

Tribes Unnamed

It then noted that several tribes were listed by the 1953-1954 Congress as being ready for full management of their own affairs. It did not list the tribes by name.

The report said "in the intervening 12 or 13 years almost nothing had been done" to produce such legislation calling for self-management by the tribes.

"If those tribes were prepared to go their own way more than a decade ago, the committee can only conclude that the bureau is more interested in perpetuating its hold on Indians and their property than in bringing them into the mainstream of American life," the report said.

The committee said it is "inexcusable that any Indian child should be without adequate classroom facilities" and suggested the job of educating Indians be turned over to some other government agency "until the states are prepared to take over this function."

Senators said they were shocked that poverty and squalor still plague many reservations despite appropriations of $1.5 billion in the last six years and a federal payroll of 22,000 employes for 380,000 reservation Indians.

The committee requested Bennett to issue a report within 90 days after his appointment is confirmed by the Senate outlining what steps he has taken to solve the problems it cited.

Bennett, a career official of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, was nominated by President Johnson to succeed Philleo Nash, former Wisconsin lieutenant governor who resigned in a reported dispute with Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall. Bennett is a native of Oneida, Wis.

Committee members acknowledged that it was unusual to file a written report on an executive nomination, but said there were "compelling reasons for it."

Murder Count Faces GI on Honeymoon

CHICAGO (AP) — A young Army corporal, just returned from his honeymoon, faces a murder charge today in the death of a pregnant former girl friend.

Cpl. William Murphy, 21, New York City, was charged Sunday with murder in the death of Miss Sue Proeber, 21, of suburban Palatine. He returned from a New York honeymoon Saturday night.

His bride, the former Lenore Wagner, 19, of suburban Elk Grove, sat in a police station while Murphy signed a statement which says he killed Miss Proeber last December during a quarrel in which she demanded that he marry her.

Oil Starvation Blamed For Crash Fatal to 2

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board reported today that oil starvation induced engine failure in a small plane that crashed at the Peotone, Ill., Airport last Aug. 7, killing two passengers and seriously injuring the pilot.

The pilot, Loren Jorris of Spring Valley, Minn., suffered head and body injuries and CAB investigators said he has been unable to recall events of the accident. His wife, Mrs. Lois Jorris, 47, and his mother, Mrs. Ella Jorris, 73, of Los Angeles, were killed in the crash.

Hawks, Celts Win In NBA Playoffs

Boston Rallies in Fourth Period And Overtakes 76ers in Overtime

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St Louis Hawks have scraped themselves off the floor in the National Basketball Association playoffs The Philadelphia 76ers are still trying to figure out what hit them

St Louis fought off elimination in the Western Division playoffs Sunday night by outlasting Los Angeles 112-100 on the Lakers' court.

The Boston Celtics pushed Philadelphia to the brink in the Eastern Division finals Sunday afternoon by erasing an eight-point deficit in the fourth quarter and stunning the 76ers in overtime 114-108

Tuesday night St Louis, trailing Los Angeles 3-2 in their best-of-seven series, entertains the tired Lakers while Philadelphia, down 3-1, tries to rebound at home against the Celtics

"I can't believe it, man I can't believe it," Wilt Chamberlain muttered after the Celtics rallied behind Sam Jones and John Havlicek to overtake the 76ers before a screaming crowd of 13,909 at the Boston Garden "It will be a long, hard road for us now"

Must Win Three

The 76ers must win three in a row to make the final round Two straight will do the job for the Hawks, who bounced back on the scoring of Len Wilkens and Cliff Hagan.

Wilkens fired in 29 points and Hagan, who will retire after the playoffs, added 22 Hagan also scuffled briefly with the Lakers' Rudy LaRusso in the first quarter

The Lakers, showing the strain of back-to-back games more than the the determined Hawks, fell behind by 16 points in the third quarter and couldn t catch the visitors Jerry West led Los Angeles with 31 points

Sam Jones scored nine points and Havlicek eight in the Celtics' fourth quarter spurt. Then, after K C Jones' free throw with 39 seconds to go tied it at 100-100, forcing the overtime. Sam Jones and Havlicek hit for four more points apiece as Boston pulled away in the extra period

Bill Russell outscored Chamberlain 18-15 and grabbed 30 rebounds, three less than the Philadelphia ace.

Chisox' Agee Hurt in Final Exhibition Tilt

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Rookie center fielder Tommy Agee twisted his left ankle while chasing a triple here Sunday as the Chicago White Sox were defeated 9-3 by the Cincinnati Reds in the final exhibition game for both teams

Trainer Ed Froelich wrapped the ankle and said Agee would have a 50-50 chance of playing in Tuesday's opener

Agee was the top Chicago rookie of the spring He batted .351 and led the team in home runs with five and in runs batted in with 18

Valeck Becomes Fifth Army Aide To Follow Dietzel

COLUMBIA, S C (AP)—Jim Valeck, the fifth Army assistant coach to follow Paul Dietzel to the University of South Carolina, arrived in Columbia Sunday to take over offensive backfield coaching of the Gamecocks

Valeck was the last of Dietzel's five West Point aides to decide on the move

Dietzel, appointed head football coach and athletic director at South Carolina last Wednesday, and his four other aides were given a rousing welcome on their arrival Saturday.

Stanky with the White Sox, Al Dark with the Athletics and Grady Hatton with the Astros.

In all, 20 teams are confident they have a shot at the two pennants but the Las Vegas oddsmakers are sticking with the Dodgers in the National League while champion Minnesota and Baltimore have been established as co-favorites in the American League.

The Orioles have received strong backing since acquiring one of the National League's brightest stars, Frank Robinson Robinson, the slugging outfielder who compiled a .303 lifetime batting average in 10 seasons with the Reds, already is being called the AL's top player.

The entire American League, meanwhile, came out ahead of the National in games played between the two leagues during the exhibition season The AL won 80 games and lost 74.

The Reds had a particularly tough time against the Chicago White Sox, finally getting their first victory in eight meetings Sunday, 9-3, with home run help from Tommy Harper, Don Pavletich and Tommy Helms. The White Sox finished with the best exhibition record, 21-7.

In other closing pre-season games, St. Louis edged Kansas City 7-6 in 10 innings, California downed San Francisco 6-5, Boston belted Washington 6-1, the New York Yankees nipped Atlanta 2-1, the New York Mets thumped Baltimore 6-3, Philadelphia crushed Pittsburgh 11-5, and Minnesota whipped Houston 8-1.

Detroit and the Chicago Cubs took on Pacific Coast League opponents, the Tigers losing to Oklahoma City 9-4 and the Cubs beating Tacoma 3-1.

Lombardi Doesn't Like Idea

Post Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — The 1966 National Football League schedule is cluttered up with 14 byes . .and this brings up that familiar question. does a bye hurt or help your favorite team?

The current bye situation was created by the addition of a 15th club—the Atlanta Falcons, who will play one game against every team in the league as a swing team

This forces each team to draw an idle Sunday. . .the league will still play a 14-game schedule but it will be spread over 15 weeks.

Third Bye Season

This is only the third bye season the league has arranged since 1950 when the Baltimore Colts became a swing (13th) team with the addition of three clubs from the old All-America Conference. The Colts were dissolved in 1951 in a common draft, returning the league to 12 clubs One of the teams, the New York Yanks, was shifted to Dallas (Texans) in 1952 and then moved back to Baltimore for 1953, which was the start of the current Colts

The next bye season was in 1960 when the Dallas Cowboys became a 13th club Things were evened in '61 when the Minnesota Vikings were added

A bye rips into a team's continuity and delays each team's major purpose, with the result that most coaches, including Vince Lombardi of the Packers, aren't generally pleased with a bye season.

It took a bit of digging but we've discovered that a bye season really isn't so bad.

More Decisive

The 1950 bye teams compiled a 6-5 record in the games on the Sunday following their byes It was more decisive in 1960, the teams with a week's rest posting seven wins against four losses.

This would indicate that a bye could be valuable as a means of resting up and the record shows that the "idled" teams apparently didn't lose their winning purpose

A badly injured club would get well in a hurry with a week off . and this was suggested the other day to Doug Hart, the Packers, defensive back

But Hart said he'd rather play a season without a bye "There's too much chance of going stale with a bye," he pointed out

If the rest-up theory means anything--the Bears had better watch their step next season

Draw Packers, Colts

The Bears draw both the Packers and the Colts after their bye Sundays Baltimore is idle Oct 2 and then visits Chicago Oct. 9 Green Bay gets its bye on Nov 13 and then hosts the Bears Nov 20 Thus, Chicago will oppose two well rested teams

The Packers' well-rested foe will be the Rams Green Bay will be in Los Angeles Dec 18 and the Rams have off Dec 11

Two clubs go through without a skip—the Cowboys who have a bye on the first weekend of the league and the Lions, who are idle on the final Sunday.

Only three players have scored more than 100 touchdowns in their pro football careers Jimmy Brown with 126 Lenny Moore 106 and Don Hutson 105 Jim Taylor is presently closest to the magic 100, with 85 in his 8-year career—behind him are Tommy McDonald of the Rams with 78 and Bobby Mitchell with 74. other high Packers are Paul Hornung, 57 and Max McGee, 50.

George Allen, new coach of the Rams, is opposed to alternating quarterbacks and believes once the selection is made the "other" (Bill Munson or Roman Gabriel) will not be unhappy. . . said Allen, "If we're winning, he's got to be happy we're winning If we're losing, he'll be playing."

Milwaukee Kegler Eighth In All-Events

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Dennis Wright of Milwaukee moved into eighth place in the regular all - events competition in the American Bowling Congress' marathon tournament Sunday

Wright tied for 10th in the regular singles with a 680 series composed of 180, 232 and 268 games

He had observed his 38th birthday Saturday by rolling 674 in team competition He added a 555 in doubles Sunday

Wright's 674 series helped boost Strachota's Milshore Bowl of Milwaukee into ninth place in regular team competition with 2,963 The co-leaders remained Ange's Roman Room, Batavia, N Y., and Coca - Cola, Detroit, Mich., tied with 3,034.

Jerry Albert and Dick Gnepel of Milwaukee kept fourth in regular doubles with the 1,303 they rolled on the opening weekend of the extended tourney last month The current doubles leaders are Tony Loicano and Bob Kweicien of Detroit with 1,351

KAC Plans Couple Bowling Tourney

KAUKAUNA — The third annual Kaukauna Athletic Club sponsored Couples Bowling tournament will get underway later this month with 100 per cent return of prize money

Bowlers may enter as many times as they want by changing partners Cost of the tourney will be $6 per couple and entry blanks are available by calling George Hurst, chairman, or at the Bowling Bar, site for the event Closing date for entries is Friday.

Joe Grow uncorked a 213 singleton on the way to a 581 threesome to set the pace in the Candy Bar Couples League at the 41 Bowl Bob Durzak's 552 series was the only other honor score

Texas Western Coach Mum on West Point Job

EL PASO, Tex (AP)—Texas Western football Coach Bobby Dobbs says he will remain tight-lipped about the West Point football coaching vacancy until sometime today

Dobbs and Col Ray Murphy, Army's athletic director, met Saturday night and Sunday in El Paso to discuss the West Point coaching post, opened last week with the sudden resignation of Paul Dietzel

"At this time I have no plans past the telephone conversation with Murphy on Monday," said Dobbs "Neither side is committed right now"

Dobbs disclosed that he will confer again with Murphy about the position.

Voigt Breaks 'Shot' Mark

Manty Second in West Relays; Oaks Triumphs

MADISON (AP)— Husky Stu Voigt of Madison West heaved the shot put 67 feet Saturday for an unofficial national high school indoor record.

Voigt's throw was the longest ever in Wisconsin in all competition, indoor or outdoors, and tied the third best mark in all prep competition nationally.

The epic toss came on Voigt's second try in the 29th annual Madison West Invitational Relays.

A meet official, Robert Brennan, who is an assistant track coach at the University of Wisconsin, said the heave topped any previous effort on record in indoor prep competition

Record books showed three prep performances of 67 feet or more, but all came outdoors where the standard is 69-10, set by Olympian Dallas Long when he was in high school at Phoenix, Ariz

225-Pound Senior

Voigt, a 225-pound senior, repeatedly pushed the ball beyond the 60 - foot barrier last season, but had to settle for second in the WIAA championships as Jim De Forest of Madison East hurled the shot 64 feet, ¾ inches for the longest prep feat nationally in 1965

Two other meet records were topped in the Class A portion of the relays and fell in Class B

Freeport, Ill., achieved still another first by becoming the only out-of-state school ever to take the title in the invitational relays.

Freeport outpaced Manitowoc in Class A, with Rockford, Ill West third. Unnoticed Oak Creek upset favored Monroe in Class B

Slender Mike Kiesling of La Crosse Logan chopped 8.5 seconds off the Class B mile record with a 4 24.2 clocking and finished more than six seconds ahead of runnerup George Williams of Oregon, the defending WIAA Class B mile titlist

Zoelle Second

Rockford West's Bill Lewis sped through the 60-yard dash in :06.4 to edge John Zoelle of Fond du Lac, the defending WIAA Class A 10 - yard champion

Bill Oaks of Oshkosh soared 13 feet, 9¾ inches in the pole vault to set a meet record by seven inches and whip second - place Jim Barnhart of Green Bay West, the 1965 WIAA winner

Defending WIAA 440 champion Jim Schmidt anchored Milwaukee Bay View's 880-yard relay team as it tied the meet mark of 1:33.7 Rockford, Ill., Auburn lowered the spring medley relay standard by 5.3 seconds to 3 35.6

In Class B, Monroe's mile relay team reduced the record for its event by 2.3 seconds to 3:32.5 and Oak Creek tied the 180 - yard shuttle hurdle relay record with a :23.7 performance

Rockford West was the only school to win two events in Class A and Monroe the only team to do so in Class B, but Freeport and Oak Creek displayed more depth

Edges Manitowoc

Freeport edged Manitowoc by three and two-thirds points, with Rockford West only another one-third point back Oak Creek finished four points ahead of Monroe

The leaders in the 88 - team meet:

Class A — Freeport Ill., 18; Manitowoc 14 1-3, Rockford, Ill., West 14 Milwaukee Bay View 13, Madison East, Madison West and Beloit (tie) 11; Rockford Ill., Guilford 10, Brookfield East 9, La Crosse Central 8½ Rockford, Ill., Auburn 8

Class B — Oak Creek 22½; Monroe 18½, Port Washington 15 Monona Grove and Shorewood (tie) 12 Hartland Arrowhead 9½, Sheboygan Falls 9, Lena - Winslow, Ill., 8, Grafton 7, Platteville and La Crosse Logan (tie) 6.

Exciting Rookies

Joe Cronin Anticipates 7-Team Pennant Race In American League

By JOE CRONIN

BOSTON, (AP) — It is my opinion — and that of all the people I've talked to in spring training — that the American League is faced with its best pennant race in many years.

Without hesitation, I can name seven teams in our league that may be fighting it out this year. I have seen some impressive young talent liberally sprinkled throughout the league, one of the best groups of youngsters we have had for some time.

We have some exciting rookies as well as players who have been around a year or two and are just beginning to realize their full potential.

If I sound optimistic, well, I am. I have to feel that way after spending weeks watching such players as Willie Horton of Detroit, Tony Conigliaro of Boston, Curt Blefary of Baltimore, and Tommy Agee of Chicago and other talented players.

Trained in Florida

While a majority of our teams trained in Florida, we can't forget Cleveland and California, training in the West. Cleveland certainly rates highly among the teams with a chance to knock Minnesota off the top.

Manager Birdie Tebbetts has good balance of power and defense. And he has pitching. To me Sam McDowell is one of the best pitchers in baseball, one of the finest to come into our league in some time. He can become one of the greatest and I don't use the word great too liberally.

Anybody who can strike out 325 batters has to be remarkable. And remember, McDowell is only beginning to reach his potential. California's Angels, who will move into their new home at Anaheim this year, have been one of the surprise teams of the spring.

In fact, Bill Rigney's team has been the hottest thing out there. Jorge Rubio has been one of the big pitching surprises of the spring. Rigney is elated about his work.

Has Necessary Talent

The Yankees new shortstop, Bobby Murcer, is only 19 years old. But he seems to have all the talent necessary to join a long line of great Yankee shortstops. I was impressed with a young left hander on the Yankees named Fred Peterson.

Minnesota is King of the Hill and intends to keep things that way. Sam Mele I noticed, again is emphasizing the benefits of hit and run baseball and the double steal — the sort of play that took the Twins to the pennant last year. And don't forget, the Twins have plenty of power and good pitching, especially with Camilo Pascual back in form. I saw Camilo in Puerto Rico and he's pitching just like he used to before his operation.

Detroit is improved. Charley Dressen has depth in all positions plus some of the best pitching talent in the league. Bill Monbouquette, secured from Boston, could have a fine season.

Eddie Stanky, managing the White Sox for the first time, puts a very formidable looking team on the field. The White Sox impressed everybody. Agee was hitting the ball hard. Tom McCraw, Pete Ward and Don Buford all looked good. We know that Chicago has pitching, a great bull pen crew, speed and defense.

Boston's Conigliaro impressed me. He looked awfully good. So did Carl Yastrzemski as well as some of their good rookies, especially Joe Foy and George Scott.

Al Dark of the Athletics is a hit and run type manager who likes speed. And he's got some in Campy Campaneris and Jose Tartabull. Ken Harrelson and Dick Green can be outstanding.

I was much impressed with Washington's Frank Howard, who had arm surgery to remove bone chips at the conclusion of last season. I just have a hunch that Big Frank will have his finest season.

In all, the American League could develop into a real old fashioned dog fight. It certainly will be an exciting season.

front where the next two games will be played Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Assuming the Wings, who seldom lose at home, can capture these two contests, they'll return to Chicago next Sunday afternoon. If Detroit fails to wrap it up then, the two teams will go back to Detroit April 19 for what could be the finale in the series.

Actually, the Wings gambled and won Sunday.

Hit 'Em Hard

"I told them to go out there and hit 'em hard," said Abel. "I knew we'd be taking a chance on picking up penalties and falling behind before Chicago's power play.

"But that was our strategy. We took some good shots at 'em, knocked the starch out of 'em and then the puck rolled our way the rest of the game."

Abel not only gambled on the penalties but he switched his lines around without the benefit of a practice session. Again, the gamble paid off.

"I decided to switch our lines so we could get a different formation against Stan Mikita's line," said Abel. "Then we weren't able to work out because the ice was being painted for color television. We still stuck with the switch because if it didn't pay off early, we could always go back to the old formation."

New Set-Up

The new set-up had Norm Ullman, Bruce MacGregor and Paul Henderson facing Chicago's Scooter Line. When Henderson was hurt, Parker MacDonald stepped in.

The maneuvering had little to do with the outcome. The Wings took a 3-0 lead in the first period as Floyd Smith came up with a pair of power goals sandwiched around a goal by Gordie Howe, the old pro.

Andy Bathgate connected on another power play goal in the second period and the Wings held a 4-0 advantage going into the final stanza.

A goal by Dean Prentice at 3:39 of the final period, another power play goal by Bathage at 5:38 and Bert Marshall's first National Hockey League goal at 6:00 rounded out the scoring.

Preserve Shutout

After that the Wings worked on preserving goalie Roger Crozier's shutout, checking the Hawks to the ice with little mercy. Detroit ended with 32 shots on goal while Crozier turned back all 21 Chicago shots.

In the other semifinal set, the Montreal Canadiens take a 2-0 advantage to Toronto for Tuesday night's game against the embattled Maple Leafs.

The Canadiens completed a two-game sweep on their home ice Saturday night by blanking the Leafs 3-0 on third period goals by Claude Provost and Bobby Rousseau. Goalie Gump Worsley handled 25 Toronto shots en route to the shutout victory.

Brewer, Jacobs And Nicklaus Duel for Title

Palmer, who finished in a tie for fourth with Doug Sanders at 290, two strokes from the top. Each won $5,700.

"I'm a little depressed about missing that seven foot putt on the 18th," Brewer conceded.

But he looked forward to the playoff and predicted, "more chances will be taken in the playoff. It's a different type of game. Now I have only two men to think about. Before it was the field. If I'm playing well I can beat anybody."

Back In Contention

"I thought Saturday after my bogey on the 10th hole to go six over par that I had no chance to win, but I birdied the next four holes and felt I was right back in contention."

He finished with 33 in his par 72 round Saturday and opened with another 33 Sunday.

Nicklaus, disgusted after blowing his chances to win, had missed a four-foot birdie try on the 17th hole that would have given him the lead. He finished with 72 as did Jacobs who had shared the 54-hole lead with him.

Nicklaus, clearly unhappy with his play, said, "I feel I'm very fortunate to still have a shot at winning. I don't feel I've played well."

A year ago Nicklaus set the tournament record of 271, including a record-equalling 64.

The 31-year-old Jacobs, from Bermuda Dunes, Calif., birdied the 13th and 15th holes, both par five, to get back into the scramble after apparently shooting himself out of it.

Two years ago Jacobs shot a record-tying 64 in the U.S. Open, and went on to finish second to Ken Venturi. But since then he has not played well. He won only $13,000 in official money last year while Brewer collected $28,000 and Nicklaus was No. 1 with $140,000.

"I've been thinking about possibly quitting the tour if I continue to play as poorly as I have for some time. There's too many other things I like to do," Jacobs said.

Canadian George Knudson and Don January tied for sixth place at 292, one stroke ahead of Ray Floyd and Paul Harney.

The bid of veteran Ben Hogan, two strokes off the pace at the start of the final round, came to grief as he shot 77 for 295 and a tie for 13th.

Cyclist Dies In Crash at Cervina, Italy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One death resulted in a flurry of accidents that caused cancelation of two major European motorcycle races Sunday.

Luigi Reverberi was killed when he was struck by a skidding cycle in the rain-lashed Milano Marittima grand prix at Cervia, Italy.

Claudio Soli of Italy spilled at the end of the 250-cc race and his machine ploded into Reverberi. When five drivers were spilled in the 500-cc event, that race was called off.

At Snetterton, England, world champion Mike Hailwood of Britain crashed on his Japanese Honda while going at high speed in the rain. He was thrown into the path of the speeding field of some 25 cyclists but all managed to avoid hitting him and his fallen bike.

However, after nine more riders had spilled, the 350-cc race was stopped by officials.

Philadelphia Coach Dolph Schayes drops to his hands and knees to urge his 76ers on in the NBA playoff game with the Celtics at Boston Sunday. Schayes' efforts were of no avail however, as the 76ers lost a 114-108 verdict and trail, 3-1, in the best-of-7 series. (AP Wirephoto)

Stricken With Chest Pains

LSU Athletic Director Shot When Mistaken for Prowler

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — The bullet that gravely wounded James J. Corbett, Louisiana State University athletic director, was fired when he was mistaken for a prowler, police report.

Chief David Keyser said it happened Thursday night when Corbett, a heart patient for seven years, stumbled to a motel window seeking help after being stricken with severe chest pains while driving.

Keyser said the occupant of the motel room, O.S. Coleman, about 45, of Sorrento, La., fired a 22-caliber derringer out of the window when he saw a hand reach in.

Corbett said his chest pains were so severe it was a moment before he realized what had happened, though the impact of the bullet knocked him down. He then made it back to his car and tried to drive on.

The auto swerved off the street and hit a tree.

Chief Keyser called a news conference Sunday night to outline the case. The investigation had marked time for two days while police waited for Corbett to recover sufficiently to be questioned.

Coleman told police he didn't realize anyone had been hit until he learned the next day that Corbett had been found, near death, slumped in his car in the same general vicinity as the motel.

Chief Keyser said Coleman then returned to Baton Rouge to report the shooting.

"No arrest has been made and no charges have been filed," said Keyser. "An arrest is not anticipated, in view of the statements made to us by Mr. Corbett and Mr. Coleman."

Commission Delays Reservation Plan For Campground Use

MADISON — The Wisconsin conservation commission has delayed action, pending further study, on a plan to inaugurate an advance reservation system on state-owned campgrounds for the benefit of users.

A private organization known as the Wisconsin Association of Camp Ground Owners, representing private enterprise in the field, has protested a reservation system for the state-operated facilities in the state parks, forests and other public land tracts.

N.Y. Completes 3-Game Sweep Over Braves

Blasingame Reached For Both Runs After Relieving Fischer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The New York Yankees completed their march through Georgia Sunday by nipping the Braves 2-1 for their third victory, each by a single run, in their final baseball exhibition series.

The teams battled on scoreless terms until the eighth when the Yankees tallied twice off Wade Blasingame, who had relieved starter Hank Fischer after seven innings.

The Braves had dropped their second game to the Yankees by the same score 2 - 1 Saturday night before 21,422 fans.

Clinton broke up another scoreless duel by homering for the Yankees with two out in the top of the eighth. Boyer scored the decisive run in the ninth as he tripled, then crossed the plate on a sacrifice fly for a 2-0 lead.

Both runs came off reliever Billy O'Dell after Braves' starter Denny Lemaster had checked the Yankees on two hits for seven innings before leaving for a pinchhitter. The Yankees edged the Braves 5-4 Friday night in 10 innings.

Burleson Below 4 Minutes Again

PLEASANT HILL, Ore. (AP) — Dyrol Burleson ran a sub-four-minute mile Saturday for the second time in two weekends.

The time for the former three-time collegiate mile champion was 3:59.1. Last Saturday in Salem, Ore., he ran the event in 3:57.5, the fastest in the United States this season.

Northern Region Director of Little League to be Speaker

Ralph W. Gray Jr., northern regional director and a member of the staff of Little League headquarters, Williamsport, Pa., will speak at an informational meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the 41 Bowl.

The meeting is open to officials, managers, coaches, parents and anyone interested in the Little League program, according to Don Kuehl, Menasha, district administrator.

Gray joined the Little League staff in 1960 after a long association with the program in the Pennsylvania area. For many years he headed the host committee for the world series.

The comments and suggestions for the improvement of local operations which come out of these meetings help shape Little League rules and procedures for the future, Kuehl said.

I said, "Show me a filter cigarette that really delivers taste and I'll eat my hat!"

Canvassers Recount Votes At Waupaca

Dretke Won Post After Coin Toss Broke Deadlock

WAUPACA — The Waupaca County Board of Canvassers will meet at 8 p.m. today to recount the votes from District No. 1 where two candidates tied for a county supervisor post in last Tuesday's election.

The recount was ordered after Kenneth Egan, one of the candidates, lost a coin toss and the post to Arnold Dretke Friday.

After Tuesday's election it was reported that Dretke had won the second supervisor's seat in the district by a one vote margin. But after the canvassing board checked the district tally sheets, an error was uncovered Thursday and a tie was declared.

The district is made up of the Towns of Union, Lebanon and Bear Creek.

Robert Backer, county ckerk and a member of the three-man canvassing board, said that Egan signed an affidavit, Friday, and filed a petition, Saturday, asking for a recount in the three precincts of the district.

Brillion School Could Get Aid

Training Program for High School Students Assigned Pilot Status

BRILLION — The cooperative vocational training program for high school juniors and seniors being planned here is classified as a pilot project and funds will be available at least by Sept. 1, 1966, to the full extent of the Vocational Act of 1963, according to word received this week from the State Department of Public Instruction.

School and industrial officials from Chilton, Stockbridge, Hilbert, Reedsville, Wrightstown, Denmark, Valders and Brillion have indicated an interest in the program which will offer courses in printing, foundry operation, mechanics, auto and truck body work and metal fabrication.

According to School Superintendent Gaylord Unbehaun, a letter has been received from William Kohl, deputy superintendent of the Department of Public Instruction, offering his encouragement and the services of the department to help make the project possible and successful.

Promise Support

Another letter from Clarence Grieber, director of the Department of Vocational and Adult Technical Education, indicates full support and assistance of that department in establishing this new venture.

Representative John Race (D-Fond du Lac) has written indicating extreme enthusiasm and noting that he will seek all possible avenues of aid through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

General Motors Corp. has offered considerable assistance with equipment and the Ford Motor Co. will give $2,500 worth of equipment as soon as the program is assured of becoming operational.

Equipment valued at more than $8,000 is earmarked for the program from local industries. Many hours have been spent in the past several weeks by local industrial representatives to lay out a workable floor plan and to determine equipment necessary to operate the proposed classes.

Purchase Equipment

Unbehaun and the high school guidance director, Harry Drier, purchased equipment from the Army surplus property warehouse in Madison Thursday when they were in the state capital to discuss the program with representatives of the State Department of Public Instruction. The materials are worth more than $16,000 when new and were purchased for $70, according to Unbehaun.

Several high schools have definitely committed themselves to the program with a specific number of students who will participate. A firm commitment from other schools is anticipated following area board of education meetings this week.

Scheduling of students, transportation facilities and per-student costs are yet to be determined.

High School administrators, principals and guidance counselors have been asked to attend a meeting at 2 p.m. April 21 at the Brillion city hall to further discuss the program.

Doctor to Talk On Problems of Overpopulation

Lawrence Students Sponsor Lecture at Memorial Union

"The Population Explosion and Its Solution" will be discussed by Dr. H. C. Wood, Jr., a spokesman for the Association for Voluntary Sterilization, Inc. (AVS), at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Lawrence University's Memorial Union.

Dr. Wood, medical director for the AVS, is sponsored here by the Lawrence Student Senate Speaker's Committee. His talk will be open to the public.

Dr. Wood will speak about the world population explosion, particularly as it concerns family associations and emotional stability.

More Education

The AVS feels that expanded educational programs are needed on all aspects of birth control, including voluntary sterilization, in an effort to help parents limit their families to the number of children they can care for and love.

Dr. Wood has been a practicing obstetrician and gynecologist for 30 years with the Episcopal and Stetson hospitals, Philadelphia.

He was president of the AVS — formerly called the Human Betterment Association for Voluntary Sterilization — for 15 years, and is a former president of the Pennsylvania League for Planned Parenthood.

Band Instrument Clinic to Be Conducted at Lawrence

Junior, Senior High Musicians, Directors to Attend Sessions

Lawrence University will be the site of a band instrument clinic for Wisconsin junior and senior high school musicians and their directors April 25.

The Interlochen Arts Woodwind Quintet and members of the Lawrence Conservatory faculty will conduct workshop sessions for woodwind, brass and percussion players in an afternoon program sponsored by the Lawrence chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, professional music fraternity.

Concert Planned

Highlight of the clinic will be a concert by the Interlochen Quintet, a professional chamber music ensemble in residence at the famed Interlochen Arts Academy in Michigan.

Registrations are being accepted at the Lawrence University Box Office, 115 N. Park Ave. There is a $1 fee for the clinic and concert.

The clinic schedule: 1:30 p.m., registration; 2:30 p.m., workshop sessions; 4 p.m., concert.

The Interlochen Arts Woodwind Quintet, founded in 1961, has become one of this country's most celebrated chamber groups. Besides its teaching post, it makes frequent concert tours, and has appeared at the Eastman School of Music American Music Festival, New York's Town Hall, and on the television program "Today".

Member of Quintet

Members of the quintet are Gary Sigurdson, flute; Don Jaeger, oboe; Fred Ormand, clarinet; Don Haddad, French horn, and Milinda Dalty Ross, bassoon.

Joining them in the Lawrence clinic will be faculty members Fred G. Schroeder, professor of music and conductor of the Lawrence Concert Band, and Dr. Edgar M. Turrentine, associate professor of music and director of student teaching.

Grass Fires Extinguished At Waupaca

WAUPACA — The fire department answered two calls to extinguish grass fires Saturday afternoon. Both blazes were brought under control before any serious damage resulted.

The first fire broke out at 4:20 p.m. behind a Bailey Street home on the northwest side of the city and burned over about an acre of land before it was extinguished.

The second fire call came at 5:45 p.m. fron the LaVerne Hanke home on Royalton Street when a fire spread from a pile of rubbish that was being burned.

Gov. Knowles Will Call 2 Pollution Meetings

Green Bay, Milwaukee Selected as Sites For Future Conferences; Dates Not Set

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles says he plans to summon water pollution conferences in the Milwaukee and Green Bay areas.

He made the announcement Friday in response to a letter from a Water Resources Conservation Council officials asking him to reconsider his opposition to a federal water pollution conference.

Knowles said the two meetings would bring together various agencies to examine all pollution data available now and decide "what technical or financial assistance and investigations, surveys and studies should be provided."

No Date Set

The governor set no date for the meetings.

He also announced that the state's Water Pollution Committee will schedule a public hearing at Ashland to review a survey of the Lake Superior area.

Minnesota Gov. Karl Rolvaag had proposed a federal meeting on Lake Superior when he turned down Knowles' suggestion for three - state pollution talks involving Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan. Knowles had suggested the interstate meeting after earlier turning down a suggestion by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D - Wis., for a federal conference.

In Four-County Area

Feed Grain Expenditures Exceed $9 Million

Post-Crescent Farm Editor

Livestock and poultry feed costs for farmers in the four-county region of the Fox Valley reached $9.3 million for an average of $2.3 million per county, from 1959 through 1964, according to the U. S. Census Bureau's agricultural surveys. Included in the figures are Outagamie, Calumet, Winnebago and Waupaca counties.

Purchases of feed grains in the area cost $1.6 million or about $438,175 per county. Farmers had to pay $6.2 million for commercially mixed feeds, mill feeds and supplements, and $2.3 million for fertilizer and fertilizing materials.

In other big ticket purchases, farmers bought $4 million in petroleum fuels for the farm business, including $3.2 million in gasoline.

Custom and Contract Work

Custom and contract work, which is increasing in the area, cost $2.5 million or about $626,650 per county. The farm businessmen purchased cattle, hogs and sheep for $2.1 million.

There were 1,068,450 acres in farms in the Fox Valley area, or about 267,000 per county. The counties contain 7,510 farms with cropland harvested and 584,400 acres harvested. This amounts to 146,100 acres per county.

Here is a rundown by county of land in farms, land-use practices, equipment, facilities, expenditures and hired workers:

Farm Land Declined

OUTAGAMIE—Land in farm declined approximately 21,000 acres, to 324,880 during the half decade ending in 1964. Cropland was harvested on 2,435 farms, down from 2,712 farms, on 196,050 acres compared to 207,393 acres in 1959.

Cropland used only for pasture declined on 350 farms with 22,000 fewer acres to the current 33,637 acres. Non-harvested cropland and pasture jumped from 397 to 1,009 farms, or 9,689 acres to 22,496 acres.

Farmers worked to improve existing soils as noted by increased use of soil improvement grasses and legumes, from 90 to 720 farms covering 13,450 acres. Crop failures were reported on 115 farms covering 1,480 acres in 1964. Idle cropland on 387 farms totaled 7,566 acres.

Woodland pasture on farms declined from 84 to the present 627, indicating more woodlands were allowed to mature for future timber value. Woodland not pastured declined on 80 farms to the present 904 farms with 25,400 acres, an 800-acre drop.

Other Pastures

Other pastures declined on 384 farms, from 448 in 1959, possibly because of increased green feeding of forages in free stall housing units employing bunk feeders. Improved pastures showed a small gain to 59 farms with 878 acres.

Irrigated land in farms grew to three farms with 177 acres of which crops were harvested on 90 acres.

Most of the 450 crop diverted acres were devoted to feed grains and a lesser amount to wheat. Land in strip cropping systems for soil erosion control declined from 135 to 101 farms. Sixty-six ponds were constructed on 51 farms covering 496 acres in 1964.

Vehicle Decline

Farms with autos declined by 300 to 2,403 as did the number of vehicles indicating multiple car families on larger farms. Motortrucks dropped from 1,886 vehicles to 1,750. There were 250 fewer farms with tractors of all types but the number of vehicles increased almost 300 to 6,804.

There were 150 fewer grain and bean combines, but pickup balers increased from 950 to 1,134 pieces. There were 771 farms with hay conditioners. Crop driers declined from 75 to 32 farms, but there were 200 more corn pickers on farms.

Although field farms with forage harvesters decreased, the number of implements increased slightly to 1,483. Farms with phones declined, but those with television and home freezers increased. A number of farmers dropped milking machines (down 400 to 1,826) but bulk tanks increased from 370 to 975.

Feed Costs

Feed for livestock and poultry cost $3 million compared to $3.3 million in 1959 due to 500 fewer farms purchasing the supplies. There were 1,033 farmers who spent a total of $730,000 for feed grains in 1964; 1,935 purchased commercially mixed feeds, supplements costing $2.1 million.

There were 180,540 tons of hay purchased in 1964 by 613 farmers; livestock and poultry purchased declined from $1.1 million in 1959 to $953,000 on 300 farms. Cattle, hogs and sheep purchases by 866 farmers totaled $799,000. Fertilizer or fertilizer products cost $950,000 for 1,906 farmers in 1964.

Petroleum fuel purchases for the farm business were up $30,000 to $1.3 million despite a decline of 250 farmers. The largest ticket was for gasoline totaling $1 million in 1964.

Spent Less

Outagamie farmers spent $20,000 less on custom and contract work. Eighty fewer farms had hired workers but wages increased $169,000 for a total of $876,600, indicating longer periods of work and increased wages. Farmers employing labor for 150 days or more increased.

CALUMET — Land in farms dropped 2,000 acres to 188,000. Cropland was harvested on 1,450 farms in 1964, down 100 farms with 4,500 more acres harvested or 125,600.

Cropland was used only for pasture on 300 fewer farms and 8,000 less acres. Cropland not harvested or pastured gained 170 more or 380 farms for a total of 5,100 acres. Crop failures were reported on 46 farms with 568 acres in 1964. Idle cropland was 1,200 acres on 110 farms;

One Injury in Three Waupaca Area Mishaps

Manawa Girl Hurt In Line-of-Traffic Pileup Friday

WAUPACA — One injury resulted from three Easter weekend accidents in the area. Damages reached almost $500.

Donna J. Radtke, 21, 531 Union St., Manawa, suffered a possible whiplash injury when the car she was driving was struck from behind about 5:40 p.m. Friday at the intersection of Royalton and Churchill streets.

City police said the Radtke car was traveling east on Royalton Street and had stopped for a stop sign when it was struck by a car driven by LaVerne Ehlers, 17, route 2, Neilsville.

At 7:30 p.m. Friday in the 100 block of S. Main Street, the car driven by L. R. Fender, 62, 1231 Riverside Drive, Waupaca, was backing out of a parking stall and became involved in an accident with a northbound car driven by Stanley P. Brehm, 21, Milwaukee. The rear of the Fender car and right side of the Brehm car were damaged, police said.

Damages of more than $200 were caused at 2:25 a.m. Saturday when a car driven by Eugene D. Sweetalla, 25, route 2, Waupaca, went out of control, four miles south of the city, and struck a child's swing set.

Sweetalla, who reported the mishap to police, said he lost control of his car when he swerved to miss three deer that had jumped in front of his car. The investigating policeman said Sweetalla skidded nearly 1,000 feet before hitting the swing set near the Parfreyville home.

New London Jaycees

Children Hunt for Easter Eggs

NEW LONDON — About 1,000 youngsters scurried throughout Hatten Memorial Park Sunday searching for brightly colored plastic Easter eggs. More than 90 prizes were awarded to children finding specially numbered eggs.

The egg hunt was the 5th sponsored by the New London Jaycees. Prizes were donated by New London businessmen.

Hundreds of mothers and dads watched as their small fry swarmed through the park in search of nearly 3,000 eggs. Each of the eggs which could be opened, had a number inside.

2 Hunting Areas

Children in the eighth grade and under took part in the hunt which started at 1:30 p.m. and continued late into the afternoon. The hunting grounds were divided into two areas, one for children fourth grade and under and one for older children. Parents were not permitted to help their children.

Stocks Falter In Heavy Trade

Airlines Strong In Early Sales, Weaken Later

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market faltered somewhat early this afternoon.

Trading was heavy on the New York Stock Exchange. Volume also was heavy on the American Stock Exchange.

The airlines, which were strong in early trading, weakened.

Trans World Airlines declined 1½ to 78⅞ after announcement that Howard Hughes will sell his 6,584,937 TWA common shares to the public. Earlier it was off 3⅞.

Braniff Soars

Braniff Airways soared 8 points to 142½ on an opening block of 3,300 shares.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off 1.33 to 944.43.

April 15 Last Day For Tax Returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taxpayers won't get an extension this year of the April 15 deadline for filing their individual income tax returns, the Internal Revenue Service said today.

Friday, April 15 is a regular business day, an IRS spokesman said. He added the only time the deadline is extended is when April 15 falls on a Saturday, Sunday or a legal holiday.

To meet the deadline, IRS said returns should be postmarked no later than midnight this coming Friday.

Knowles Pleads for Appleton to Accept Site for University

Tells Lions That Location, Size Will Fulfill Long-Range Needs

Gov. Warren P. Knowles, today urged Appleton residents to "support the expansion of educational opportunities recommended by the Site Selection Committee, the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education and the State Building Commission." The governor was referring to the decision to build a new university on a site along Green Bay on the eastern edge of the city.

Speaking at a luncheon meeting of the Appleton Lion's Club in the Conway Hotel, Knowles explained the problems related to the selection of a site for a facility which is sought after by many communities.

"The problem of choosing sites for new universities in the northeastern and southeastern areas of Wisconsin is very much like the situation being faced now by the Atomic Energy Commission," the governor states. "Just last week, the chairman of the AEC and a team of experts visited the proposed sites for a new multi-million dollar atomic accelerator. One of the leading sites is at Stoughton, just outside of Madison.

"The AEC is looking for a site that is near a university, one that is accessible to thousands of visiting scientists, a large enough land area so the facility can be expanded in the future, and a spot that is geologically suitable. Naturally, there are hundreds of communities across the nation that would like to be selected, but the choice has been narrowed to six proposed sites; two in Illinois and one each in Michigan, New York, Colorado and Wisconsin.

Midwest Cooperation

"Each of these states," Knowles said, "is trying very hard to convince the AEC that it has the best site, although all of the Midwestern states are cooperating in an effort to bring the accelerator into a Midwest state.

"This is very similar to the competition that existed over the selection of a site for the new northeastern university. Many communities sought to be picked and made sincere efforts to persuade the Site Selection Committee that theirs was the best site.

"But ultimately," Knowles stated, "decisions must be made. There are bound to be many disappointed people. The important thing to remember, however, that that long-term, broad public interest must be the major consideration.

"The site recommended by the committee will serve the state's needs. It's size and location lends itself to the fulfillment of the educational requirements of this region, not for just the next 10 or 20 years, but for the next 50 or 100 years."

Prosecuting Attorney Ill Arson Trial Postponed

Trial for Richard Allen Cornelius, scheduled for 9:30 a.m. today, has been delayed to the same time next Monday because of the illness of Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer.

Cornelius, 20-year-old Milwaukee youth, charged with three counts of arson and one of criminal trespass, was alone in court today when the postponement was announced by County Judge Urban P. Van Susteren. This meant that Cornelius, formerly of rural West DePere apparently has not yet been able to retain an attorney at other than county expense.

Samuel Sigman, an Appleton attorney appointed to represent the youth, was formally relieved from the case early last week after his appointment was objected to by Cornelius. Sigman was the third court-appointed attorney to withdraw following objections by the youth.

Postponement Announced

The postponement was announced after court convened this morning in the circuit courtroom where the case was moved because Judge Van Susteren's courtroom would be too small to accommodate the large number of spectators expected.

Many spectators were on hand this morning, as were 34 men and women empaneled for a jury to hear the case, and several witnesses expected to testify.

Fees and Mileage

Schaefer said in court today that he began feeling ill late Sunday but did not ask for the delay until court was called this morning because he thought he might recover in time. Schaefer said he has what appears to be the flu.

Judge Van Susteren, in noting that the Cornelius case has been delayed many times, said it was the "first time a delay has been necessary because of the prosecution."

Previous Delays

Previous delays centered about the problems raised with Cornelius' objections to counsel appointed for him. He has insisted on his right to representation by a particular Appleton attorney whom both Judges Van Susteren and Gustave J. Keller before him have refused to appoint at county expense.

When asked if he had anything to say this morning, Cornelius, in court for the 14th time since his arrest hours after the fire Oct. 31 that burned a church and two barns in the Town of Oneida, replied to Judge Van Susteren, "I can't say anything, I don't have an attorney."

Constitution Can be Amended

The approval of three amendments to the constitution by voters of Wisconsin in the spring election is an encouraging development. These were relatively minor matters designed to bring the constitution up to date. They were also technical in nature. Given the natural inclination of the voter to turn down a proposition he does not fully understand, the affirmative votes on all three propositions are a tribute to the intelligence of state voters.

Two years ago three other constitutional amendments were put to the people, and all were rejected. Several of them were of considerable importance Subsequently the demand grew for a state constitutional convention. Supporters of this drastic method of revising our constitution claimed that revision could never come about through the referendum procedure.

But those three amendments in 1964 were tied in with an advisory referendum on raising the state gasoline tax to accelerate highway construction. It appeared at the time that major opposition to raising gasoline taxes not only resulted in the defeat of the advisory referendum but the other three referenda on the ballot as well.

There are other vital and important constitutional changes under consideration by the legislature. The results of the recent referenda should encourage the legislature to submit additional modernization propositions to the electorate.

How to Build a Platform

Followers of Wisconsin politics will be surprised to learn that Seventh District Rep. Melvin Laird "is viewed both by critics and by many friends as a Midwest Machiavelli" and that Laird's idea for a Republican platform conference some months before the presidential nominating convention "bears his typical marks of subtlety and cunning" as a means of rising in power in the GOP including a possible vice-presidential nomination.

This is the description of Bruce Chapman, a political writer for the New York Herald-Tribune. It does Laird an injustice.

The Chapman thesis is that Laird, chairman of the platform committee at the 1964 Republican convention, and probably 1968 chairman, would use the platform conference plan to see to it that a right-wing platform was written to be forced upon the nominating convention and the eventual presidential candidate.

With the benefit of hindsight, most Republicans would agree that the platform which came from the 1964 Laird Committee was too conservative for the vast majority of the electorate as proved the following November. But whether Laird was a tool for the writing of a platform sought by Sen. Barry Goldwater or whether he was presiding over a committee reflecting the coming nomination of Goldwater on the first ballot is another argument.

The Chapman explanation breaks down on an assumption that the document produced by the platform conference would be ratified by the convention and accepted as written by the candidates seeking the presidential nomination. It also avoids the fact that Michigan Gov. George Romney, a leading Republican moderate who argued against the Laird Committee's platform at the 1964 convention, has joined Laird in making the platform conference proposal to the Republican Coordinating Committee. While there is no evidence, it would be much easier to jump to a conclusion that the governor, a presidential possibility in 1968, is the "Midwest Machiavelli" seeking to nail down a platform to his liking for 1968

As we read the Laird-Romney plan, the platform would go to the nominating convention for ratification and possible amending. It is to be expected that presidential candidates would continue to use convention fights over the platform as part of pre-nomination strategy.

The public would then have a clearer understanding of the points of difference between the candidates. But a major argument for the Laird-Romney plan is that the public and the Republican Party would benefit from a more meaningful deliberation over party principles rather than the present system of a rushed debate, often keyed to nomination strategy, in the hours before the convention climax of nominating a candidate for president.

Safer Automobiles Coming?

As the hearing before the Senate Commerce Committee demonstrated, the nation has reached the hour of decision on the question of how a safer automobile is to be designed.

There is no longer any question that the public and its representatives in government want some prompt answers for the belief that a substantial reduction in traffic death tolls could result from design changes in cars. Speaking for the four major automobile manufacturers at the committee hearing, John S. Bugas, a vice-president of Ford Motor Co, summed up current public opinion in a few words in responding to a question of Indiana Sen. Vance Hartke.

"If we hadn't gotten the message before on the importance of safety, we have got it now. And we will have it a year from now and we will have it five years from now," said Bugas.

The Bugas testimony illustrated how much of a space there is between existing public opinion and existing laws governing big business. Bugas said one block to development of safety features throughout the industry was a worry that the auto makers would find themselves on the wrong side of antitrust laws

But the main decision before the nation is how to get the broad job of safety design accomplished The testimony of the four automobile makers recorded a familiar conflict in government regulation of business.

The administration has proposed a bill to direct the Secretary of Commerce to establish and enforce minimum safety standards upon the automobile makers. The industry proposed, instead, a joint safety board to adopt standards, to accept responsibility for seeing to it that the four car makers followed the standards, to promote the exchange of safety features, and to report on progress to the federal government.

"The question is not whether these goals are desirable The only question is how to meet these desirable goals in the most effective way possible," the manufacturers told the committee

The testimony of the industry would appear to contain the probability of a workable compromise with the fixed opinion that the government must take the total role of directing safety features and deadlines A deadlock between the industry position and the view that government must do the job would result in no progress.

The auto industry already has responded to increasing public concern For example two companies expect to have collapsible steering posts on 1967 models. Public opinion is demanding action from both the government and from industry.

America Is Victim of Appalling Lack of Balance in Government

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

We are victims of an appalling lack of balance that has plagued us for years.

President Johnson, his talk of "consensus" notwithstanding, has failed to supply this. So has Congress and the Supreme Court. So have our intelligentsia from which balanced judgments should be expected to come. Where is the crystallization of common sense?

Taylor

You see the lack of balance in our foreign policy. Exaggerated internationalism is just as foolhardy and dangerous as narrow isolationism. And this is how we grew so perilously overextended and find our funds or troops, or both, in so many places where we meddle but do not mend.

More than 1½ million armed Americans are serving in 31 countries President Johnson now asks $17 billion to export the Great Society to the entire world Our foreign aid is 21 years old and has cost $125 billion. It still flows to 82 countries, although many programs have long been proven a complete waste and we will surely never do with dollars what we fail to do with brains.

Cyrano had a similar lack of balance and Rostand finally had him say, "Thank God, another enemy." How far from that are we"

ABUSE OF POWER

You see the lack of balance is many unions' contentions. A healthy trade-union movement is indispensable, and there are good and bad unions as there are good and bad anything else. But the abuse of power by some is one of our chronics. Instead of allowing them to enlarge their powers our government's proper course is to restrict them.

Last January the illegal transit strike crippled New York City for 14 days. The strike leaders contended that the city was trying to wreck the union. That claim, of course, was false. But if the choice had to be made it would have been far better to wreck the union than to wreck the city.

You see the lack of balance, tragically, in the civil rights movement. There is no such thing as a simple moral problem. The problem of equal rights to a minority but also equal rights to the majority goes on forever. Yet you find what my distinguished colleague, William S. White, calls "the irrational pressure for civil rights so harsh as to become civil wrongs."

You see the lack of balance in unlimited government spending. Distributing taxpayers' money involves moral as well as economic principles. The government does not support us. We support the government. It has no right to seize our earnings to perpetuate its leaders or discriminate against the thrifty man.

NECK-AND-NECK RACE

You see the lack of balance in our educational system. Glory be, we now have some 130,000 schools and colleges. But is the wisdom of our teaching, and the requirement that certain things be learned, proportionate to the size of this growth? Again and again in the college "teach-ins" you heard and read statements that were as false as they were unfair: but they were believed Yet our great country is in a neck-and-neck race between education and disaster.

You see the lack of balance in our liberal movement; in fact, in the tragic death of a true liberal movement. It is inconceivable that any intelligent man in tune with his times in any era could be anything but a liberal Yet our liberal movement, within which the support of civil rights and government spending seems enough to qualify (even Adam Clayton Powell qualifies!), has become so doctrinaire and dogmatic as to be utterly ridiculous

It flagrantly violates liberalism's first principle by failing to be alarmed by a concentraton of power, and even super-power Instead of opposing exploitation by anybody—capital, labor, a minority, a majority or anybody else—it supports super-power if it is in the hands of sources it prefers. Thus liberalism becomes reactionism, and that is a horrible loss.

Working Young Hit By Four Big Blows

Editor, Post-Crescent:

My sympathy goes to the working young and middle-aged citizens these days. Much of the time we seem to concern ourselves only with youth and senior citizens.

1. A steep rise in Social Security withholding since January.
2. A noticeable rise in inflation which hits this group especially hard since so many of them have growing children, mortgages, and installment payments.
3. A speed-up in pay-roll tax withholding which is about to become law
4. A federal income tax increase soon as the November election is safely in the bag

Navy Contract Sets Communications Study For Surface Ships

BUFFALO, N.Y (AP) — Millimeter communications is being studied by Sylvania Electric Products Inc., under a Navy contract—toward permitting limited range, high-information communications between surface vessels.

Millimeter waves (30,000 to 300,000 megacycles) offer the military virtually unused frequency space. And the waves can carry considerably more information, due to the broader unused band of frequencies available, than microwave transmissions (1,000 to 30,000 megacycles) commonly used for telephone relays and satellite communications.

I-94 Beautification Points Up Weakness In State Leadership

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The idea of beautifying new Interstate Highway 94 between Madison and Milwaukee and transforming it into a scenic parkway is one of the most attractive propositions to come from the State Highway Department in years.

Wyngaard

It may be a symptom of the governmental trends of the times, however, that the inspiration for the exciting project comes not from state legislation, or from the state executive department, but from the incentive of a federal aid grant made available in the new national legislation directed toward highway beautification.

Connecting as it does the state Capitol and the populous southeastern part of the state, the Interstate route now being completed will become the main street of southern Wisconsin. Although it won't carry as many tourists as the major north-south arteries, it has an enormous potential for resident traffic, nevertheless, and it follows a terrain peculiarly adapted to man-made scenic improvement.

BAKKE LEADS

The announcement of the plan to make the rebuilt road a kind of showpiece for new highway design in Wisconsin was made by Chairman G. H. Bakke of the Highway Commission. Bakke shows promise of being the most creative head of the big agency the state has had lately.

There was a time when the typical officer of the Highway Commission was concerned only with the task of building the shortest and most efficient route between two points, as the critics in earlier decades so often put it. The older highway administrators probably had a justification for their more cautious views. They were trained and got most of their experience during a period when money was scarce, design and traffic standards were more modest, and public taste more conservative.

It has not been generally commented upon, but the highway administration's chief officer corps has turned over almost completely during the last few years. According to all appearances, there is an admirable rapport between the professionals of the staff and Bakke as the new chairman of the agency who has already had the experience and now has the prospect for tenure, that give him more security in his leadership position than most of his predecessors had in earlier times.

There is now an active program of obtaining scenic overlooks, through easement or purchase, on some of the major routes of the trunk highway system elsewhere in the state. The effort to make the traveler's experience more pleasant through roadside parks and other conveniences has continued effectively, although without much publicity boasting.

* * *

PRECEDENT

Aside from its own merits, the southern Wisconsin parkway may be a model that may persuade the political rulers of the state of the enormous possibilities of other highway beautification work in a state which is so self-consciously concerned about the economic value of travel and the tourist flow each summer.

The highway officials have shown that they are willing enough when they have the resources. But the unfortunate fact is that governors and legislatures on the whole in Wisconsin in spite of its preoccupation with "conservation" ideals, have been indifferent to such objectives and have permitted the national government again and again to take the initiative. The simple matter of billboard control is perhaps the best, if the most melancholy, example.

Perhaps there is no single act by which the Legislature could as effectively contribute to the beautification of the Wisconsin outdoors. But there has been no real push by any representative politician. Such control of unsightly roadside construction as has been achieved has come through the bland bribery of federal aids. The pretension of state sovereignty, and the routine denunciation of the pervading influence of the national government in local affairs must appear increasingly hollow under such circumstances.

Have to Snowplow Before You Can Slalom

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Not long ago, I was delighted to tear a story out of the New York Times sports pages, to show to my 10-year-old boy. It was a report from the National Professional Ski League competition in Vermont, and it began:

Harris

"Some of the greatest professional ski racers in the world have been nursing a well-guarded secret They have trouble doing a topflight snowplow. A snowplow is to skiing technique what the dribble is to basketball or treading water is to swimming. It's kindergarten stuff

"Still," the story went on, "the skiing experts seemed shaky today in this department 'It really shouldn't be a secret,' a league official explained. 'The snow-plow is so fundamental that most of these men haven't done it since they were in knee pants.'"

I used this story as effective propaganda to explain to my boy why I wasn't able to give him much help with fractions and decimals. It was hard for him to believe that I had done them so many years ago that I was as rusty on fractions as the ski champions were on snowplows.. When I finally convinced him of this, he asked:

"Then why should I bother to learn them if they'll do my no good as a grown-up, and I'll forget them just as you have?"

Many schoolchildren ask this question of their parents, because so much of what they are forced to learn seems "useless" to them in the larger scheme of things But here, again, I was able to go back to the skiing story to make a point about education.

"If the ski experts hadn't learned how to do a snowplow when they were young," I said, "they wouldn't be able to do the slalom runs or the split jumps or the Christies today. The snowplow gave them the basics, just as running the scales on a piano gives the basics of music It's not something you learn for its own sake, but for the sake of something more worthwhile.

"A grown man," I pointed out, "may forget how to handle decimals—but if he learned the general processes of arithmetic, then he can go on to higher and more interesting forms, if he cares to. What he is doing in the early stages is learning how to learn, and that's the most important part of schooling, because it goes on forever, even after you've left school."

"You mean that something is useful even if we forget it?" he asked

"Certainly," I said "We train the mind just as we train the muscles—and the skiers forgot how to snowplow, but their muscular systems went on to better things because of that early training. Knowing what to forget, and when to forget it, is also an important part of education."

Truck Delivers Fire To Proper Location

He was in an alley picking up trash when he saw smoke pouring from the back of his truck. He hopped in the cab and drove a block and parked in front of the fire station.

Some Food Prices Rise But Others Go Down

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Between February, 1965, and February, 1966, the cost of pork at the retail counter soared 37.3 per cent. In the same months, the cost of potatoes plummeted 29.5 per cent.

In these 12 months, parking fees, auto financing charges and the cost of auto insurance climbed 5 8 per cent. Simultaneously, used car prices slid 6 3 per cent and new car prices were off 3.8 per cent.

Between winter of 1965 and winter of 1966, tobacco prices—translated into the cost of the after-breakfast cigaret, jumped 7.2 per cent. But the costs of the breakfast frozen orange juice sank 21.2 per cent and of the instant coffee, 15 3 per cent.

Mixed Pattern

Behind the upward surge in the overall cost of living in recent months is an extremely mixed pattern of consumer prices—and this "mix" in itself poses the greatest challenge to you since the Korean War 15 years ago to shop, select, substitute and thereby slash the rise in your own living costs.

In the period from February, 1965, to February, 1966, the government's consumer price index rose 2.5 per cent to an all-time high of 111.6 (1957-59 equals 100.) The rise in February alone was 0.5 per cent, largest for any February since 1951. But while some key prices have been riding up the roller-coaster, others have been riding down. To illustrate:

UP	Pct.
Pork	37.3
Tobacco products	7.2
Hospital services	6.1
Auto Insurance, parking, finance	5 8
College tuition, texts	5 5
Housekeeping services	4.6
Newspapers, magazines, books	4.3
Shoes	4.1
Down
Potatoes	29 5
Frozen orange juice	21.2
Instant coffee	15.3
Chocolate bars	11.8
Used cars	6.3
Appliances	3.2
Wrist watches, costume jewelry	3.9
Radios, TV, toys	3.8

Behind dispute, the list of increases dwarfs the list of decreases—in importance to the average household as well as in quantity. Beyond dispute, the recent spurt on consumer prices shouts a warning of accelerating inflation.

FOOD PRICES MIXED

A first significant "but" is that the bulk of the rise in consumer prices has been in food (three-quarters of the sharp jump in the price index in February was in food.) A second is that even within the food category, the increases have been selective. As an illustration, if you had bought and served canned pears for dessert in February, you would have paid 14 per cent more than a year earlier If, though, you had served a fruit cocktail of bananas or oranges, your desert would have cost 5 per cent less.

A third is that in the last few weeks, farm prices have steadied or started to decline and the official forecast is that farm prices will fall in coming months. The Agriculture Department estimates that by year end, prices paid to farmers for eggs and poultry will drop 15 per cent; prices paid to farmers for vegetables will be down 20 per cent; meat animal prices will be off 5 to 8 per cent and fruit prices will be off 2 to 5 per cent. In the words of Arnold Chase of the Bureau of Labor Statistics:

EFFECT ON TAXES

"If shoppers can weather this one out until fall, food prices should drop substantially from their present high level."

To help keep the lid on your cost of living and help avert an income tax hike, do these simple things:

Shop for food bargains and also be highly selective in purchases of non-food items which have been in a steep upward price trend. Substitute, where you can, foods and goods which are not inflated in price for those which are.

If we rise to this challenge now, we have a fighting chance to avoid an income tax boost which will force us to curb our buying by cutting our take-home incomes. Now are the crucial weeks

Questions and Answers

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — I made less than $10,000 last year, including interest on a savings account. Will I be able to use the short form when I file?

A — Assuming you are otherwise qualified, you can use the card form 1040A if all but $200 or less of your income consisted of wages reported on withholding statements and the remainder consisted of either wages not reported on withholding statements, dividends or interest.

If any of your income came from a capital gain, for example, you could not use the short form.

Q — What do you have to do to be able to claim someone as a dependent? I support my mother's brother but I've been told that I can't claim him since he's not a member of my household.

A — Since your uncle is one of the blood relations listed in the law, he need not be a member of your household to qualify as a dependent. You must meet the other requirements, too, however. They are the support test, gross income test, citizenship or resident test, and the joint return test. See the 1040 instructions for explanation.

A — If a couple is living together in a common law marriage recognized by the state in which it was entered into, a joint return may be filed.

Q — Some years back I had some medical expenses that I was able to deduct on my return. Then I could only deduct that amount that exceeded a percentage of my income. Does that still apply?

A — Yes, this limitation still applies for those under 65 years of age. Only medical expenses exceeding 3 per cent of adjusted gross income may be deducted when you itemize. Medicine and drug expense must exceed 1 per cent of adjusted gross income before inclusion in medical expense for the 3 per cent reduction. For those 65 and over and their spouses, all medical, medicine, and drug expenses that qualify may be totally deducted.

Buddhist Monk Thich Tri Quang Behind Revolt

Government Seems To Know Little About Powerful Man

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration isn't saying much — if it knows much — about the secretive monk, Thich Tri Quang, the man behind the Buddhists' efforts to throw out the government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky in South Viet Nam.

But at this moment Tri Quang is the most important man and force in that country and, despite all the American efforts to the contrary, in the end could be responsible for turning it over to the Communists.

Undersecretary of State George W. Ball on television Sunday dismissed the turmoil and rioting in South Viet Nam as simply the "evidence of a political process at work." All factions, he said, are determined to resist Communist aggression from North Viet Nam.

Too Simple View

But Sunday the Buddhist leaders indicated Ball was seeing the situation a little too simply. At a news conference Buddhist officials said they have lost confidence in Ky's government and have vowed to form a caretaker government to organize general elections.

Asking if they envisioned an elected civilian government seeking peace with the Viet Cong and asking the United States to pull out of Viet Nam, a Buddhist spokesman replied: "If that is what the people want, then that is what they will get. We want to fulfill the aspirations of the people."

First, a little background. Ho Chi Minh, Communist leader of North Viet Nam, is the best known figure in that country, north and south. To many he is a hero, to all a legend while still living. He has been a fighting leader 20 years.

If open elections were tomorrow in both Viet Nams, Ho Chi Minh would seem to have the best chance of winning, particularly when it is remembered many Vietnamese have little or no knowledge of communism or democracy and the Viet Cong still control about 75 per cent of the countryside in South Viet Nam.

Rival for Ho Chi Minh

No South Vietnamese leader has been allowed to last long enough to build up real power of a real following or come close to being a rival to Ho Chi Minh as a leader in the public mind.

The monk, Tri Quang, has been a major factor in toppling every Vietnamese government since November 1963, when President Ngo Dinh Diem was not only ousted but shot to death. Now Tri Quang is working on Premier Ky.

What is Quangs' background and possible connection with the Communists of North Viet Nam? The Washington Star's correspondent in Saigon, Richard Critchfield, Sunday wrote one of the most thoughtful and intelligent stories to come out of Viet Nam since the present troubles started.

He pointed out that Tri Quang's chief religious and political teacher was Thic Tri-Do, today the Buddhist superior in North Viet Nam and a member of its Cabinet. And, Critchfield said, Tri Quang, has a younger brother who is a Buddhist monk in North Viet Nam and who paid a secret visit to him in 1964, accompanied by a member of the Viet Cong's political arm.

Stop War

And, Critchfield said, Tri Quang twice told a Vietnamese newsman in 1965 that he wants to stop the war as soon as possible by a cease-fire or by any negotiation that will have the people's support.

That sounds exactly like the answer given Sunday by Buddhist leaders to newsmen, mentioned earlier in this story.

Right now, Critchfield said, Tri Quang is sponsoring free elections "which in South Viet Nam would deliver the country over to the Communists as long as Viet Cong terror and political organizations control the countryside."

This raises, therefore, a very obvious but critical question. Is it possible that Quang is interested mainly only in the survival and influence of Buddhists and is therefore willing for the Communists to take over all of Viet Nam if the Buddhists are guaranteed their place in the sun?

Parents' World

Accepted Standards Cause Typical Teen-Ager's Struggle

BY DR. EVE JONES

Dear Dr. Jones: My 17-year-old daughter rebels against everything her family and her way of life stand for. She started this attitude about six months ago. She says, "I don't want to have the same boring life you and your friends have: P.T.A., church, bowling once a week, working all year for a lousy week's vacation." She says she wants us to leave her alone and that we have no right to think our values are better than hers. She can't see why boys have to pick her up at home and meet us before taking her out, and she can't see what's wrong with going to a boy's home when no one is home.

We agree that everyone can't have the same ways of thinking, but we tell her that we are responsible for her until she is an adult, and she must meet certain rules and carry certain chores. If this is a normal teenage pattern, how do parents put up with it?! I always thought our family was having a ball together. What could have happened? Mrs. S. C.

Most of this sounds like a typical adolescent struggle to establish independent convictions about standards that were previously accepted automatically.

Deal with her snotty remarks about a typical adult's life by telling her to keep quiet and by reminding her that this pattern of living lets her get an education and prattle about values instead of having to go to work for a living herself.

As for moral standards, insist that she hold to the ones you insist on. From her viewpoint, she's trying to prove that boys aren't as "bad" as she thinks they are. This is her idealism against your practical views of reality. But your daughter is obviously risking embarrassment, if not actual assault, by going to a boy's house when his parents aren't home. Her sense of security needs protecting right now.

When she's 21, if she still wants to find out what fighting off a fellow feels like, that will be her own business. In the meantime, she must be a polite and dutiful daughter.

Most parents just grit their teeth and suffer — a few can grin and bear it. It isn't easy!

Live Within Your Income

Money Used for Improvement Considered Good Investment

BY MARY FEELEY

Planning to put your house up for sale? Then take it for granted you'll have some homework to do first. Experienced real estate agents will tell you that no prospect is going to look at your property through your eyes. It may be a dear and comfortable refuge to you, and never mind the fact that the paint is peeling in the foyer and some of the hardware is missing from the kitchen cabinets. You don't even notice the minor irritants anymore because they're so familiar.

But how about the prospective buyer? Can you ask him for indulgence as well as money? Not and get it, too.

So start taking inventory now. Some of the improvements you will need to make will cost you a little money. But spending it in the right places is no gamble. It's an investment.

Want to Check

Tidy up the outside premises. Shovel the snow or mow the lawn. Get any refuse or broken bicycle wheels and such out of sight. See that the front stoop is free of ice or mud.

Have leaky faucets stained tubs and basins? Scrub up and replace the washers. A prospect will be critically interested in how well all the plumbing works. If a plumber is required, call him in now.

How can you pep up the kitchen? Inexpensive new curtains, new hardware, fresh topping for work counters? Remember that kitchen and bathrooms are key areas in appealing to a prospect.

Lighting Important

Call in the carpenter if there are any loose door knobs, warped windows or doors, or drawers that won't close snugly. Tidy up the closets. Orderly arrangement of the contents makes the closet space appear roomier.

Check carpeting and railings on stairways. One little tripup and the prospect has something unpleasant to remember you by. Give some thought to the lighting. Would more wattage provide a more cheerful atmosphere? Would rearrangement of lamps make a room more inviting?

Never forget that you have to spend a little money in order to make a lot. So be as critical as you can of your home.

One more word: when your real estate agent is showing the house, don't tag along. Let him do the talking about price, terms and whatever else is on the prospect's mind. He has a lot more experience in this field than you have.

(You can write to Mary Feeley in care of the Post-Crescent.)

LaCrosse Boy Falls to Death

LA CROSSE (AP) — A boy plummeted 75 feet from a bluff to his death Saturday when the small stump he clutched to try to stop his fall was jerked out of the ground.

The 12-year-old boy, Gary Brandt, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brandt, died in a La Crosse hospital 1½ hours later.

Authorities said the child was one of four youngsters playing on top of the bluff overlooking the La Crosse River northeast of the city. They said the Brandt boy slipped, grabbed at the stump and fell when it came loose.

May Primaries To be Test of Viet Nam Policy

Vote Also Expected To Show Extent of Democratic Split

WASHINGTON (AP) — Party primaries in 13 states will offer some tests at the polls next month of President Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

They will provide hints also on the extent of the political upheaval that has raised Republican hopes in the South. They seem likely to demonstrate more party division among Democrats than among Republicans.

Oregon's May 42 primary is shaping up as a test of Pacific Northwest sentiment on Johnson's conduct of the Southeast Asian war.

GOP Gov. Mark O. Hatfield, who is critical of the President's policies, seems certain to become his party's nominee for the Senate seat being vacated by Democratic Sen. Maurine B. Neuberger.

Declares Support

In the Democratic primary, Rep. Robert B. Duncan has jumped into the senatorial nomination race with an announcement of all-out support for Johnson's course.

Howard Morgan, a member of the Federal Power Commission in the Kennedy administration, is in the contest with the claimed support of Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., outspoken dissenter to the Johnson war policies.

Primary voting takes place May 3 in Alabama, Florida, Indiana, Ohio, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

In Alabama, which has seen some switching by local officials from the Democratic to Republican parties, Mrs. George C. Wallace is trying for the Democratic nomination for governor, for which her husband is barred from running again.

House Margin

Republicans think that the Democrats may come out of this contest so disorganized that GOP Rep. James D. Martin could win the governorship in the fall elections. They are hoping any such result might increase their 5-3 margin over Democrats in House seats.

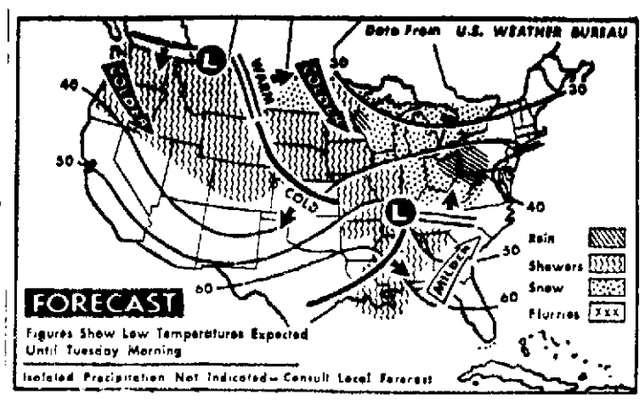
Democratic Sen. John J. Sparkman has no primary election opposition but may face a tough Republican challenge in November.

Gov. John B. Connally, a supporter of the President's Viet Nam course who is at odds with his old friend Johnson on some domestic issues, is counted as certain of winning renomination in the May 7 Texas primary.

In Nebraska, on May 10, Gov. Frank B. Morrison is likely to become the Democratic nominee to oppose GOP Sen. Carl T. Curtis in what would be billed as a liberal vs. conservative general election contest. Curtis, a conservative, has supported Johnson's war policies. Morrison has voiced no dissent.

West Virginia's May 10 primary will be followed by those in Pennsylvania May 17, Kentucky May 24 and North Carolina May 28.

The Pennsylvania voting will coincide with the filing deadline in New York State, where the Democrats are far from achieving any unity on a candidate to oppose GOP Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.



Rain and Showers are forecast for tonight for most of the nation. Exceptions are areas from California to Texas and New England to Louisiana. The Great Lakes region will have snow mixed with rain. The North will have colder temperatures while little change is expected elsewhere. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Natural Gas Believed Cause of Morning Blaze at Harrison

SHERWOOD — Fire in the milk house on the Clarence Gorski farm, route 1, Menasha, sent Harrison No. 1 Fire Department to the scene about 10:15 a.m. today.

Earthquakes Shake Sections of Japan

MATSUSHIRO, Japan (AP) — A series of sharp earthquakes rocked Matsushiro today, crumbling stone walls, breaking water pipes and knocking out electric power.

The quakes were the worst of the series of earth shocks that have been jolting the area almost daily for the past nine months. They were also felt in four other cities and many towns.

Harpsichordist Next In Conservatory Series

James Tallis of Hope College to Give Special Events Concert at Harper Hall

Harpsichord music of the 16th, 17th and 18th centuries will be the fare at a Lawrence Conservatory Special Events concert Thursday, in Harper Hall. Concert time is 8 p.m.

James Tallis, assistant professor of music at Hope College, Holland, Mich., will be the artist.

His program of Sweelinck, Couperin, Boehm, Rameau, Bach Scarlatti, and others will be open to the public without charge.

Tallis has distinguished himself both as a scholar and concert artist.

He was graduated from the Eastman School of Music "with distinction" following his study of organ there under Catherine Crozier Gleason.

Cum Laude Graduate

He received a Master of Sacred Music degree, cum laude, from the Union Theological Seminary's School of Sacred Music, where he was an organ student of Robert Baker. Later, while studying there in a Doctoral program, he was a harpsichord student of Gustav Leonhardt and Leonard Raver.

James Tallis

In 1963 he was awarded a Fulbright grant to The Netherlands, where he again worked with Leonhardt, and studied organ improvisation under Cor Kee.

He has held a number of church positions, among them that of choirmaster-organist at the West Point Post Chapel. Before joining the Hope faculty in 1964, he was an instructor in organ, church music and theory at Hastings College, Neb.

In Holland

Tallis has appeared as an organ and harpsichord recitalist throughout the East and Midwest, including the American Guild of Organists' (AGO) regional convention in Boulder, Colo., in 1961. While in The Netherlands he played several recitals, among them the closing organ program at the 1964 Haarlem Academy.

In February, 1965, he was engaged as a recitalist, conductor and lecturer at the Oklahoma City Baroque Festival. That June he served as lecturer and recitalist at the AGO national convention in Ann Arbor, Mich.

His program here is the third of four on the Special Events series. Concerts were given earlier by the Baumgartner-Snyder violin - piano duo, and organist Jean-Luc. Another organist, Don Vollstedt, is scheduled for a concert in June.

Tallis' complete program follows: Two Chaconnes, by Louis Couperin; "Les Baricades misterieuses," by Francois Couperin; Toccata, and Variations on "Under the Linden Green," by Sweelinck; Variations on "Loth to Depart," by Giles Farnaby;

Suite in D Major, by Boehm; Four Pieces for Keyboard, by Rameau: Capriccio on the Departure of a Beloved Brother, by J. S. Bach; and Three Sonatas, by Domenico Scarlatti.

Singer 'Andy' Gets Smart, Other Guests

BY TV SCOUT

8-9 (Channels 4-5) — The Andy Williams Show has another of its sprightly offerings with genial Andy playing host to funny Don Adams (talking about a female named Delta Levy who lives in the New Orleans area), beautiful Maureen O'Hara (singing "If You Love Me" and "More") and talented composer-pianist Henry Mancini (accompanying Andy in some of Henry's compositions). The high spot of the show is a lavish production number called "The Flower Drum Shtik," with Andy as a Charlie Chan-type called Wing Tong, Don as his Get Smart Agent 86, and Maureen as Cookie Fortune. (Color)

6:30-7 (Channels 4-5) —Paul Anka has raised a lot of Hullabaloo recently. He's host of the show for the sixth time singing "What Now, My Love?", "You're Gonna Hear From Me" and "The Shadow of Your Smile" and introducing Lesley Gore, Peter and Gordon and The Cyrkle. (Color)

* * *

7-7:30 (Channels 4-5) — "From Russia With Chaos" on The John Forsythe Show is pretty silly stuff, but you may find yourself laughing anyway. Seems "they" are still out to liquidate Major Foster, and the lovely master hyponotist Dr. Nyet (Susanne Cramer), who can knock herself out by looking in the mirror, is assigned the task. (Color)

* * *

7:30-8 (Channels 2-7-12) — Danny Thomas and the star of The Lucy Show give this outing several funny moments. Lucille Ball, on an errand for her banker, winds up in the chorus of one of Danny's TV spectaculars as a dancer with great legs, but an awful lot of left feet. (Color-Repeat)

* * *

7:30-8 (Channels 4-5) — Dr. Kildare joins the repeat parade with a four-parter, "Fathers and Daughters," a tear jerker that is distinguished only by its cast. (Color-Repeat)

* * *

8-8:30 (Channels 2-7-12) — Another delightful outing on The Andy Griffith Show as Jesse Pearson comes to town in the role of Keevy Hazelton, a famous rock 'n' roll singer who likes to sing songs about towns. (Color)

* * *

8:30-9 (Channels 11-6-9) — Peyton Place isn't waiting for June to have a wedding. Betty Anderson and Steven Cord are married tonight.

* * *

9-10 (Channels 4-5-7) — Run For Your Life finds Ben Gazzara on a train from Chicago to Los Angeles where he shares a dining car table with a lovely nun (Louise Sorel). But when he tries to return a pearl rosary and prayer book she has left behind, he can't find her. When he next spots the girl, she is no longer wearing her nun's habit. (Color)

Playhouse Offers Scholarship to Goodman Theater

April 22 is the deadline for applications for the annual Pheasant Run Playhouse scholarship to the Goodman Memorial Theatre School of Dramatic Arts of the Art Institute of Chicago.

The date was announced today by Carl Stohm, Jr., Pheasant Run Playhouse producer, and Dr. John Reich, head of production at Goodman Theatre.

The scholarship awards full tuition and fees to a first-year student of acting. Worth $782, the award will be made on the basis of acting talent, scholastic record and financial need. Applicants must be high school graduates and reside in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan or Wisconsin.

Auditions for finalists will be held on May 14. The presentation to the winner will be made May 16 by actress Carolyn Jones, who will be appearing at Pheasant Run Playhouse in "Ready When You Are, C. B!"

Eligible applicants may send for entries by writing to Mrs. Rea Warg, admissions office, Goodman School of Drama, Chicago, Ill., 60603 postal zone code.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

Jim Backus Hits Stride in Acting Career

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Wry on the rocks Jim Backus could scarcely be doing better this season. The evidence:

1. On Eastern night he heads up a CBS color special, "Marineland Carnival," also starring Chad and Jeremy and 75 per cent of the Beverly Hillbillies—Irene Ryan, Max Baer, Conna Douglas.

2. During the summer he will host a CBS variety series, "Continental Showcase," featuring top European acts in the Jackie Gleason time period.

3. He is beginning his third year as Thurston Howell III in the outrageously successful "Gilligan's Island."

4. He continues to bumble through various mediums as the myopic Mr. Magoo.

Likes the Money

"It's nice to know that I am building up an annuity at long last," he reflected. "I figure 'Gilligan's' can go another two or three years, and then I'll be set for life.

"Those residual payments are dandy. Years from now, I'll be getting a piece of jade from China, a slice of blubber from Greenland, and various other payments from places where the series is still playing.

"Overnight we dropped from a No. 9 rating to 36," said Backus. "Batman was good for us: he shook us out of our complacency. Batman can't last. 'Gilligan's Island' will."

Viet Nam Braces for More Buddhist Riots

There are also important minority religious sects

Take Advantage

The government charged that the Viet Cong had been instructed by the National Liberation Front's Central Committee to take advantage of the unrest. A government intelligence source was quoted by the official Viet Nam Press as saying that on March 12 the committee ordered Viet Cong agents to emphasize political agitation "by instigating the population to topple the government."

A slackening in U S ground operations coincided with the political uncertainty in Saigon, but an American spokesman said new operations were being planned Government forces reported repulsing a Communist attack on a Special Forces camp in Kien Tuong Province about 5 miles west of Saigon near the Cambodian bor4der. They claimed 140 Reds killed, most of them by air attack, against light government casualties.

Heavy Casualties

Heavy casualties were reported among the five or six U.S. Special Forces men — "Green Berets"—at the camp.

U S planes kept up their daily bombardments of North Viet Nam Monday, but the number of missions in the South was down from the usual figure of 450 to 500 to about 300. Reliable sources attributed the curtailment to a temporary shortage of bombs and other explosives resulting from a transportation problem. They said U S. officials hope to overcome the shortage quickly.

While an interlude of calm prevailed in Saigon's streets Easter Sunday, there were signs of a lessening of tension in Da Nang, where anti-Ky military officers virtually declared their independence of the government last week.

1,000 Evacuated

Some of the 1,000 American civilians and military personnel evacuated Saturday from Da Nang because of the danger of fighting between antigovernment and loyalist troops began returning to the northern city today.

The mayor of Da Nang, Dr Nguyen Van Man, who had been threatened with execution by Premier Ky, said: "All the people and the military want a civilian government as soon as possible We will work to this end. We need the Americans to help us."

Dr Man said he still regarded himself as mayor, even though Ky has named a replacement "No one has informed me I am fired," he said

He indicated that Ky's government had decided to back down on its threat to occupy the city, headquarters of the army's northernmost 1st Corps, with military force It was Ky's dismissal of Lt Gen Nguyen Chanh Thi as commander of the 1st Corps and virtual overlord of the country's five northern provinces March 10 that precipitated the nationwide unrest.

New Commander

The new 1st Corps commander, Maj Gen Thon That Dinh, said earlier the troops were not needed to restore order Some barricades in the city started going down

The atmosphere also was momentarily more relaxed in Hue, another center of Buddhist-led unrest Only a handful of American and other foreign newsmen circulated in the old imperial capital, which like Da Nang was placed off limits to U S military personnel three weeks ago

Radio Hue, now in the hands of an antigovernment student "Struggle Committee," cautioned Americans in an English language broadcast Sunday to remember they are guests and not hosts in South Viet Nam The broadcast urged the United States not to use its "material might and terrible weapons" to support Ky's regime

Disturbance Erupts After Fatal Mishap

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — An angry Korean crowd stoned an American ambulance after the vehicle accidentally killed a 7-year-old Korean boy, the U. S. Army said today.

The ambulance was en route Sunday to the Kunsan air base hospital with an unidentified U S. soldier, paralyzed from the waist down, the Army said.

The ambulance encountered a crowd around a bus on the outskirts of Kumje, about 15 miles south of Seoul Several persons in the crowd directed the ambulance around the bus The ambulance was moving in low gear

Suddenly it was halted and the driver and his assistant learned that the ambulance had run over the boy, Chung Ku Im of Kumje. Neither man had seen him.

The driver tried to persuade the crowd to let him take the boy to the hospital but was knocked unconscious by a stone.

Korean police took the boy and the driver to a hospital in Kumje, where the child was pronounced dead. The paralyzed soldier was transferred to another vehicle and taken to the air base hospital

Unborn Benefitted By Test Ban Treaty

Atomic Contamination Decreases With End of Nuclear Explosions

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's health, including the health of unborn generations, is reaping benefits now from the atomic test-ban treaty signed by the United States and the Soviet Union in July 1963.

Scientific detectives of the U S. Public Health Service report that:

— The radioactive bombardment from strontium 90, the boneseeker, is decreasing though it will be centuries before it ceases

— Iodine 131, with its affinity for the thyroid gland, virtually disappeared from the milk supply three years ago

The health service and other agencies charged with monitoring the environment report that they are continuing their surveillance, and are ready to step it up, in case of such eventualities as:

Possible Accidents

Resumption by the Soviet Union and the United States of above-ground testing, a thing they agreed in 1963 not to do; new, massive-scale testing by Red China or France; venting of underground explosions here or abroad, accidents in handling weapons or in the growing nuclear power industry

Though the United States and the Soviet Union did not initial the test-ban pact until July 1963, their last "big bang" year so far as atmospheric explosions were concerned was 1962. In that year huge amounts of radioactive material were spewed into the air, including the stratosphere

Sampling fresh milk is a good way to detect the presence in the environment of some potentially harmful substances, such as radioactive iodine 131 which could, perhaps, cause thyroid cancer in some people, though that question is still far from settled

Milk Concentration

In the autumn of 1962 the average concentration of iodine 131 in U S fresh milk samples rose to about 70 picocuries per liter A picocurie is 1 millionth of 1 millionth of a curie. A curie is the equivalent of the radioactivity produced by one gram of radium. A liter is a little more than a quart.

Although the 70 picocuries was the peak for 1962, it was far below the level at which U S authorities would consider it advisable to take counter- measures, such as taking cows out of pasture and feeding them on stored hay.

In early 1963 the iodine 131 in milk dropped sharply to virtually zero, and has remained there, on the whole, ever since. This rapid decrease is due to fact that iodine 131 has a short half-life, about eight days. That is, it dissipates half its radiation in eight days, half of the remainder in eight days, and so on.

Strontium 90, which might in some cases cause bone cancer or leukemia — though here again nobody knows too much about its effects on human beings — is a different problem. This is because its half-life is much longer, 28 years. It reached one peak in milk in mid-1963 and another in 1964.

Similarly with radioactive cesium-137 which, though it has a half-life of 30 years, seems to tend to wash out of soils faster than strontium 90.

Right now, cesium 137 seems to be levelling off at about 30 picocuries per liter One notable exception to this is a tundra area of north Alaska, above the Arctic Circle.

There abide Eskimos who are rather primitive, in that they have not learned to eat out of cans. They hunt migrating caribou, which in winter live off such things as lichens, which have collected much cesium 137.

Study Eskimos

Scientists have been airmailing caribou hams south to laboratories for analysis. They also have been examining Eskimos with radiation counters.

Some caribou-eating Eskimos have 20 times the amount of cesium 137 in their bodies as people in the other 49 states But officials insist this is no cause for alarm, some point out that these Eskimos have been subject to much less radiation than many residents of France, or other dwellers among monuzite sands and rocks abounding in natural radiation.

However, Sen E L Bartlett, D-Alaska, has demanded a setup in radiation counter-measures, especially in the Arctic.

He says "We talk a great deal about pollution: pollution of our air, our water and our land

Effect on Genes

The argument about radiation's effects on the genes, carriers of hereditary characteristics, rages on unsettled Some experts hold that any added radiation is a menace, others say that Indians dwelling in the high Andes and bombarded by cosmic rays, do not seem to be different from other people

Compared to the big test blasts in 1962, the Chinese and French nuclear experiments, did not bulk large on U S radiation counters But, for example, the Chinese blasts did cause a few blips indicating the presence of minute amounts of iodine 131. Health service analysts, by studying cow thyroids collected from slaughterhouses, helped define the path of a Chinese radioactive cloud across the United States.

As for the future, James G Terrill Jr., deputy chief of the division of radiological health, says the Public Health Service must be alert and prepared.

Fliers Limited to 100 War Missions

The new policy went into effect in January, the Air Force said

Voting Turnout Lightest Ever

SPEARMAN, Tex. (AP — Hansford County School Board members are perplexed over how to fill a vacancy on the board — if one actually exists.

A board election was held April 2. L. L. Edge, who has served on the board for 21 years, was the only name on the ballot for Precinct 2

But no one went to the polls to vote, not even Edge He said he was sick that day.

The state attorney general's office was asked for a ruling It replied "We have never heard of such a thing happening and can find no record of any decision made in such a situation in the past."

Under state law Edge is the board representative from that precinct until a successor is sworn in

Businessman, Candidate for Governor Dies

CHICAGO (AP) — Delbert J. Kenny, securities executive and former Wisconsin candidate for governor, died Sunday.

Kenny, 69, was chairman of the board and chief executive officer of B. C. Ziegler and Co., West Bend, Wis., a firm specializing in institutional loans for churches, hospitals and schools.

He unsuccessfully sought the Republican nomination for governor of Wisconsin in 1944 and 1946. Gov. Walter S. Goodland carried the GOP to victory both years.

He died at Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital in Chicago after a lengthy illness. Funeral services will be Wednesday in West Bend.

Kenny was a native of Platteville, Wis., and a graduate of Platteville State. He joined the institutional securities firm in 1917 after three years as assistant principal at West Bend High School. He served as company president for a quarter of a century before his son, Thomas J, succeeded him last year.

Evelyn Waugh Dies in England

LONDON (AP) — Evelyn Waugh, whose pungent satires made him one of Britain's most successful novelists, died Sunday at the country home where he lived the squire's life he so often lampooned.

Waugh, 62, died of unannounced causes soon after returning from Easter services to his home near Taunton, in western England.

As a writer, Waugh was acclaimed by critics all over the world as witty, sophisticated and sometimes brilliant. In private life, he was retiring and avoided publicity.

Born in London, the son of a publisher of modest means, Waugh became fascinated by the social whirl of the British capital. He attended Oxford in the mid-1920's and gained entry into the glittering set he so admired.

The novels he wrote before World War II were satirical studies of the social set.

Researchers Report

Cancer Vaccination May Prove Successful

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne State University medical researchers say they may have discovered a way to treat cancer by vaccination.

Results they claim for a four-year program so far include:

Other Patients

Others among the 20 patients treated showed no improvement, said Dr. Paul L. Wolf, Wayne State professor of pathology and director of experimental pathology at the Detroit Institute of Cancer Research.

Failure in these cases, Dr. Wolf said, probably came because the disease was too far advanced and the patient's body no longer capable of producing cancer-fighting antibodies.

Many cancer patients are lost, Dr. Wolf said, because their bodies don't fight the disease. The body recognizes the malignant cells as part of it, and doesn't react by producing the chemicals needed to kill them

The Wayne State group combines cancerous cells taken from the patient with chemicals obtained from the cells of rabbits. Then the combination is injected into the patient

His body recognizes the matter as foreign and produces antibodies to fight it. In the process, Dr. Wolf said, the antibodies may kill or retard the tumor.
